STALLIONS.

ARABIAN STALLION FOR SALE.—THE PURE Arabian Horse SAID is for sale on reasonable terms as his present owner has no use for him. To breeders he will be a most valuable acquisition. The following pedigree gives the purity of his blood, with other interesting facts relating to his career:—
SAID (also spelled Sayed), as given by the groom of Nubar Pasha, Minister to France from Egypt, was foaled on the 27th of March, 1863, at the stables of Nubar Pasha. His sire was the famous Khorassan, the property of Abdul Medjid. Said's dam was Objan, the property of Nubar Pasha, and is the descendant of the celebrated Janizear, which leaped the citadel walls with the last Mameluke Bey when fleeing from Mahomed Ali in 1819. Therefore, Said is a cross between the Nedjid breed on the mother's side and the Anazeh breed on the side of Khorassan.
This grand Arab stallion exhibited wonderful powers of endurance and speed in the Abyssinian war, being ridden constantly by an officer during that campaign.
For further particulars apply to Mr. FOSTER, at the office of Wilkes' Spirit of the Times.

FINANCIAL.

AIR LINE BONDS.
CONNECTICUT INVESTORS
will find the First Mortgage bonds of the New Haven, Middletown and Willimantic Railroad Company the most desirable form of investment now offered in the market.
The Bonds are exempt from every form of State or local taxation and from the United States income tax.
The average saving thus made will amount to two and one-half per cent, which, added to the interest received, makes them equal to a bond paying nine and one-half per cent, and this rate of income is not affected by a decline in gold.
The bonds are issued only as the work progresses, and for but one-half of the actual cash expenditures on the road. They are secured by a first mortgage on all the property of the company, of whatever kind. The State of Connecticut is made trustee for the bondholders, and every bond must be issued from the office of and be countersigned by the Comptroller. They are issued in denominations of $500 and $1,000, are coupon or registered, have twenty years to run, and are payable, principal and interest, in New York. The bonds are offered at par and interest.

LETTER FROM PROFESSOR R. OGDEN DOREMUS.
It gives me pleasure to commend most cordially Professor Rohde's views representing the history of the earth and the progress of civilization. I am happy to learn that he proposes offering to the public his highly instructive and scientific entertainments, which combine pleasure and intellectual profit; for while he appeals to the eye with these splendid pictures a terse explanatory story is narrated, so that in a few hours these vast and wonderful themes are attractively and impressively presented. I sincerely trust his efforts will meet with a generous response from the various colleges and schools of our city, as well as from the public. Respectfully,
R. OGDEN DOREMUS, M. D.

THE MISSISSIPPI BILL has passed the Senate with all the harsh conditions of the bill admitting Virginia. Now, we suppose, Sumner and the democrats will have a high old time over Revels.

A FAIR PROPOSITION.—Foster Blodgett declines to accept the commission of United States Senator from the State of Georgia until certain charges made against him are either cleared up or acknowledged to be simply the offspring of political engineering. Blodgett! oh! Blodgett! Don't be too particular.

A LONDON SNOBBY NEWSPAPER "deplores the approaching end of the Freedmen's Bureau in the United States and recounts the immense good it has accomplished." This is a weak attempt of a timid English juvenile to ride on the broomstick of "Mother Harris" in a cast-off dress of "Mrs. Sairey Gamp" from Printing House square.

FACILITIES FOR NEWS GATHERERS.—Mr. Kiernan, of the Assembly, shows himself commendably desirous of facilitating the communication of news to the people. He understands the power and influence of the printing press, and he is opposed to the old censorship once exercised by the Quarantine agents on the dissemination of news. He has introduced a bill to allow news yachts to board vessels entering New York harbor.

SWEDEN AND MODERN IDEAS.—A cable despatch, which we publish this morning, informs us that the Swedish Diet has just passed a law admitting to political rights dissenters and Jews. This is a step in the right direction. It is another triumph of the press, just because it is the fruit of an enlightened public sentiment. We congratulate the Jews on this fresh act of justice. It is something to know that the time is rapidly passing away when it will be a sin anywhere to be a dissenter or a Jew.

AMONG THIEVES AND ROBBERS.—A contemporary publishes the news that one of the most distinguished of Mr. Seward's entertainers at Puebla, Mexico, has been a very notorious robber and murderer. But there is nothing wonderful in that. Mr. Seward found everything so lovely and delightful in our sister republic in such things as independence, liberty and popular rights, that he became a lion of the whole population, of all colors, all classes, all parties, and all kinds; and, the Mexican highwaymen and cutthroats being satisfied with things as they are, why should they not put themselves to some trouble to entertain their deliverer from the French, the great Americano?

Congress and the Administration on the Cuban Question.

"My policy" came within a single vote of the expulsion of Andy Johnson from the White House. Whether General Grant, remembering the misfortunes of Johnson, has or has not determined to avoid every danger of a collision with Congress, his policy seems to be the policy of awaiting the action or the opinion of the two houses upon all the great questions of the day. Upon the Cuban question, for example, we have been over and over again assured that his sympathies are with the islanders and their cause of independence, and yet his Secretary of State, in his strangely distorted notions of neutrality, has proved an active and efficient ally of Spain. His zeal and vigilance as a detective in the interest of Spain have been very remarkable for an old man, while his gracious ticket-of-leave to those thirty Spanish gunboats has shown that he has none of the patriotic weaknesses of a young man. General Grant, we will suppose, has consented to all this because he thus avoids the danger of trenching upon the supreme authority of Congress over such delicate questions as war, peace, neutrality and belligerent rights. This is the best defence we can give him, and conceding that, under the circumstances, it may excuse him for resting upon his oars and drifting down stream, we can look only to Congress for action upon this Cuban question.

It is in this view that nothing can be expected from the administration in taking the initiative for the settlement of this question that we regard with special satisfaction the movements made in both houses of Congress in behalf of something like fair play to the Cubans, and in behalf of some recognition withal of the rights of American citizens. We regard these movements with special satisfaction because, without the direct intervention of Congress, the government is in danger of being disgraced in the eyes of the civilized world. On the plea of humanity alone General Grant, at any time since the 4th of March last, would have been sustained by Congress, by the American people, and by the enlightened opinion of Christendom, in proclaiming belligerent rights to the Cubans. Nay, more; at any time within the period indicated he would have been sustained by the public sentiment of the United States, and justified before the world, in pleading the duty of an armed occupation of Cuba in order to put an end to the barbarous atrocities of the Spaniards and to their savage government over the island, as outside the pale of civilization recognized by the law of nations.

On the broad and general principles of humanity and civilization there was a plausible excuse for the French armed intervention in and protectorate over Mexico. On the same plea as that of Louis Napoleon, considering the fact that we have assumed the guardianship over that country against European interferences, it becomes our duty to establish law and order in Mexico. The same plea, in view of the reduction of the Spanish government over Cuba to the savage condition, would doubtless satisfy Napoleon as our explanation for a military occupation of the island. But Mr. Fish, they tell us, is afraid of a war with Spain, and the President says "Let us have peace." So be it, then. But, surely, the Cubans, against all the power of Spain by land and sea, have sufficiently proved their title to belligerent rights. Perhaps; but have we come in conflict with Mr. Sumner's hobby, those Alabama claims? We apprehend that Mr. Fish has not the remotest idea of any further agitation of those claims while he remains in the State Department; but for all that Mr. Sumner does not wish to have his case weakened by any recognition of belligerency in behalf of the Cuban insurgents.

Hence we infer the resolutions submitted in both houses of Congress, and the reported intention of the Committee on Foreign Relations of each body, are directed rather to the enlargement of our neutrality laws than to the concession of belligerent rights to the Cubans. On belligerent rights their claim is apparently not much better than was that of Jeff Davis after Lincoln's proclamation of a blockade, and that is a matter of international law; but our neutrality is a matter subject to the action of Congress. The law of 1818 has become threadbare and liable to such one-sided misconceptions as those of Mr. Fish. It needs amendment, and such amendment as will admit of no misconstruction.

We believe that the Committee of Foreign Affairs of the House, of which General Banks is chairman, is disposed to act faithfully on this Cuban business, in accord with the universal public sentiment of the country; and we are assured that the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, of which Mr. Sumner is chairman, is satisfied that they must not in this business trifle any longer with public opinion. We hope, however, that General Banks and the House will lead off, because that body, in being nearer the people than the Senate, is nearer the mark of "manifest destiny;" and we want a resolution from the immediate representatives of the people first, because we want to wake up the administration. It has already been asleep too long, and should be permitted to sleep no longer.

A PLAN FOR LOCATING THE ROUGHS.—A bill has been introduced at Albany "providing that the Common Council of Brooklyn shall have the appointment of all the conductors and drivers for every car used on the railroads running through that city." This is an excellent idea. As things are now nobody knows exactly how he may best avoid encounters with the dangerous members of society. He may meet a cutthroat anywhere, at any moment—sometimes in the most unlikely places. But when the City Councils make these appointments we shall know exactly where some hundreds of the worst rogues are, and that will afford a chance to keep out of their way, and will do so much for public safety.

THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT has been testing our patience for a long time, and now it appears that she has been paying our claims against her in currency instead of gold, as stipulated. Even the traditional Yankee shrewdness at bargaining has been insulted. We have stood her murder of our citizens and her outrages on our national spirit, but our ire certainly will rise at this last blow. And yet our blessed Attorney General sustains her in it.

The Empress Eugenie.

The clouds that have been lowering upon her house have become so oppressive that the Empress Eugénie has succumbed. She is sick. Can we wonder? The Emperor is in serious trouble, so serious that she sees less of him than in the happier days of the past. The prospects of her only child are far from bright. It is difficult even for her to see through the thick clouds which environ her the Fourth Napoleon on the throne of France. What is perhaps worse, the Holy Father, her good friend, is beset on all sides with difficulties. The Council is not to be a success. In the dark future she can see the French soldiers recalled from Rome and the Papal See at the mercy of those vile Italians. Eugénie has taken matters perhaps too much to heart. It is gratifying to learn that the Empress' health is improved, and that the Emperor is not likely for the present to lose one of the best pillars of his throne. Though not born in the purple, Eugénie has graced her high position as no one has done since the days of Marie Antoinette.

The First Piano in Japan.

The Mikado of Japan has had a piano from Austria, the first instrument of the sort which has been seen in the empire. It was forwarded to him for the use of his wife and arrived safely. At the time when our latest mail advices left Yokohama the royal pupil was diligently learning to play on it, under the talented and attractive instruction of Lady Parkes, wife of Sir Harry Parkes, the British Minister near the imperial court. In this we think that both Austria and England have obtained a great temporary national advantage, and that the diplomacy and commerce of the United States loses just so much. Lord Clarendon, in his far-seeing statesmanship, acknowledges that the system of war ships, cannon balls, bayonets, opium, whiskey and the London Foreign Missionary and Bible Societies is at an end, both in Japan and China, and so adapts himself immediately to the agencies of the new era of music and electricity and steam. Ireland will most likely send out, if only in a spirit of contradiction to Britain, a splendid harp with "golden strings," accompanied by a young lady who will teach the "Wearing of the Green" and "Remember the Glory of Brian the Brave" and so forth. Secretary Fish must bestir himself, and Congress and the piano makers of New York look to it. General Butler will most likely cease attitudenizing in his fine parliamentary elocutionary interjections of "Shoo, fly, don't bodder me," at a moment when our traders and travellers in the far East are likely to hear "Britons, Strike Home," "God Save the Queen," the "British Grenadiers" and "Long Live the Kaiser" sent forth by native and imperial Japanese hands all over the country, from Yokohama to Jeddo. We are consoled to a considerable extent in this serious matter, however, by the fact that the Mikado's wife will have only just been well accustomed to the instrument by the time that a cargo of New York made pianos will have, perhaps, arrived out there, and that on hearing the superior tone of the American instrument she will at once discard the Vienna and London make and order from us. "There's music in the air." The HERALD cannot afford to neglect the inspiration even if Mr. Secretary Fish, or President Grant himself, are not in sympathy.

POOR MEXICO continues shaken by revolution. Our latest advices represent the government forces under General Escobedo as compelled to retire before the combined revolutionary forces of Toledo and Martinez. The rebels were receiving numerous accessions of prominent men to their ranks. We would not be surprised if Juarez is either in exile or in a bloody grave before many weeks. We see no hope for Mexico ruled by Mexicans. Garcia de Cadena, the proposed opposition President, may triumph, but there is no prospect that his rule will bring peace and tranquillity to the republic. Altogether the future of unhappy Mexico is dismal in the extreme.

WANTING TO HURT HIM.—Out at Rochester one Paddy Beahan has just been tried for some eccentricity of conduct by which he took the life of one Maginnis. The jury found Beahan guilty of murder in the second degree, and hoped the court would give him all the penalty possible. That jury is sound on murder. It has no lingering tenderness for fellows who kill, and it would probably have hanged Beahan if the instructions of the court had not prevented it finding him guilty of murder in the first degree. Perry ought to be taken up that way.

A LIFT FOR THE NEW POST OFFICE.—An appropriation of four hundred thousand dollars is to be made at once for the new Post Office, and this will put the wheels in motion once more. It is a pity that the wheels were ever stopped—that so much time and good weather have been already lost to the labor. But fitful progress seems to be the condition of government operations, and we must only be cheered by the fact that, with means once more in hand, the conductors of this work will push it forward with the greatest speed consistent with good workmanship.

THE DECLINE OF THE SHIPPING INTERESTS.—We publish elsewhere the report of the Committee of the House on the Decline of American Shipping submitted to the House yesterday. It credits the decline mainly to the ravages of Confederate cruisers, the transfer of American vessels to foreign registers and the high tariff on building materials. It suggests a number of remedies, including the readmission of vessels that changed their registers during the war, the allowance of drawbacks on construction materials and the abolishment of State or municipal taxes on tonnage.

PROPOSED RECESS OF THE LEGISLATURE.—The Assembly yesterday agreed to adjourn to-day until March 1, and the Senate until Wednesday next. The members think they need the relaxation of the semi-sessional spree. In the meantime the people will have to wait for their new Charter and the boys for their free liquor.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE is to be reduced by thirty million dollars. It is to be hoped that the reduction will be effected in great part by reducing or abolishing the income tax. The tariff is also to be reduced twenty millions.

How Great Britain Protects Her Citizens—A Contrast.

It is hardly necessary to call attention to the fact as to how the British government protects its citizens in all parts of the world, under any circumstances and at any cost. This is known to everybody. It is the boast of Englishmen and the glory of England. Perhaps nothing has done so much to make England the great Power she is and to make her universally respected. There is one recent event, however, fresh in the memory of all, that may be noticed by way of contrast to the pusillanimous conduct of our own government in neglecting to protect American citizens in Cuba and elsewhere. The costly war with Abyssinia was not made for conquest or territory, but to release from imprisonment a few British subjects, and to punish the king of that country for daring to commit an outrage on Englishmen. The British government did not stop to count the cost or the value of the lives merely of those held in bondage. The national honor and the principle of protection to British subjects were in question, and that was sufficient to cause a large military and naval force to be sent to a remote part of the globe, and at an enormous expenditure. Contrast this conduct of the British government with that of ours in the case of the repeated and bloody outrages upon American citizens by the Spaniards in Cuba, and it is almost enough to make us feel ashamed of our country and to wish we were Englishmen. When, oh when, shall we have an administration that can realize the greatness of the republic, the dignity of American citizenship, and the imperative duty of throwing its protection over our citizens in every part of the world and under all circumstances?

Boston Revolutionism and the "Reds" of Massachusetts.

A "Boston gentleman," according to the Paris Marseillaise, or "Boston Boy," as we would call him in New York, sends fifty francs to the French capital as his contribution towards erecting a monument to M. Victor Noir. It is quite a lively sign to find Boston waking up and going in for revolution and a city "muss," provided they are undertaken at a safe distance from State street. The capitalists of Europe differ slightly in opinion from the Boston "gentleman," however, for the return of the Bank of France yesterday shows that the specie in the vaults of that institution increased twelve millions of francs during the week over the amount held at the date of the previous return, which also footed up a large increase. Thus where Boston gives nine dollars and twenty cents to the cause of municipal riot and disorder, the industry of the people of the European Continent pledges itself by twelve millions of francs to the interest of peace. Hudibras' maxim, "The value of a thing is just as much as it will bring," holds good.

THE MYSTERY NOT YET CLEARED UP.—The singular aspect of the assault on Mr. Eaton is not improved by the latest fact in regard to it. This fact is that the newspaper organ in the city which has become the mouthpiece of the only clique of men known to be animated by savage ill-will toward the injured gentleman endeavors to belittle the injury done, and to make light of the whole matter.

GOLD 119⅛.—Yesterday gold declined to 119⅛, which is the lowest price since September 24, 1862. At the same time our bonds in London advanced to 88, which, with exchange at 109½, is equivalent to 97, or four per cent higher than the English consols.

THE ARIONS EN MASQUE.

Arion and Liederkranz—names dearer to Prince Carnival than any others of his numerous progeny—those who alone understand his royal wishes and can carry them into effect—right jolly fellows, with whom dull care can find no place, and whose fun is contagious—nay, irresistible. Talk of American or French masquerades! The former are prosy as Froissart's Chronicles or political economy essays, and the latter are wild and reckless in the extreme. Last night the Academy looked like itself, and the Arions were in their gayest and most humorous mood. The Ecumenical Council, with a bewildering array of prelates, was the main feature of the night. The procession, in which the progressive and retrogressive powers of the age were fully represented, was something to be remembered for a time. Prince Carnival, of course, was the reigning potentate, and his sway was patriarchal and jolly. It was the first true bal masqué of the season, for there was quite a variety and number also of rich costumes. At midnight the scene was magnificent, the floor being densely crowded with masks of the most cosmopolitan character. The dresses of the various committees were very rich and in good taste. The management of the affair was everything to be desired, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure and enjoyment of the maskers. The floral decorations of the Hanft Brothers were of the most superb kind, and added much to the brilliant appearance of the house.

THE LAST BROOKLYN MURDER.

Funeral of the Victim, Mr. Voorhees.

Civic and Military Honors—Expressions of Sorrow and Esteem—Touching Incidents—Investigation Before the Coroner—Indignation Meeting.

The demonstration of respect and popular feeling manifested at the funeral of the victim of the late assassination—Mr. D. L. Voorhees—yesterday was among the most imposing and impressive ever accorded by the Brooklyn community to a private citizen. Never heretofore, perhaps, has so strong a sentiment of regret at the sudden taking away of the life of a prominent and industrious man by the hand of a fellow man been engendered in the minds of all classes. Hence it was not a matter of surprise that the people turned out by thousands to attend the funeral, and that business was virtually suspended in all the offices of the municipal and county government during the greater part of the day.

The crowd began to set in from all sides towards the late residence of the deceased, in President street, as early as half-past nine o'clock, and many personal friends and acquaintances of Mr. Voorhees found their way into the hallway and the parlor, in which apartment the body was laid out. At ten o'clock the parlors were closed in order to permit the family and relatives to take their farewell of their beloved dead. The widow and three children of the deceased, his mother, three brothers and two sisters, with a number of other family people, then formed about the coffin and performed the sad office of bestowing a last look upon the mortal remains of their fond relative, now stilled in death.

The face of the deceased looked very natural, although the wound was perceptible over the right eye, which latter was slightly discolored. The body was attired in a black suit, and was encased in a costly and elegant rosewood casket, silver panelled and silver mounted. On the lid rested two very handsome wreaths of tuberoses and camelias. In the centre of one of these was the Masonic emblem—the square and compass. The plate bore the inscription:—

DOMINICUS S. VOORHEES.
Died Feb. 14, 1870,
Aged 40 years, 10 months and 6 days.

The services were conducted in the house by the Rev. Henry M. Storrs, of the South Congregational church, assisted by Rev. W. S. Carpenter, of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The Rev. Mr. Storrs, in the course of his remarks, said:—The father of a family, a man sustaining broad relations to the community, has come to his death by violence; yet it is of God, our Father, and He bids us "Be still and know that He is good." It is a consolation and a support to know that this sad event has been ordered by our Father in heaven, and has been appointed to cause men to look from worldly things to things above, and to eternity.

Our departed friend was loving, kind and constant to those who were near and dear to him. He was energetic, manly and benevolent. His generous hand and kindly will freely dispensed benefits to the poor. His fidelity gained him so eminent a place among his fellow citizens. All classes follow him to the grave. Not only high civic and other organizations, and persons of wealth and influence, but hundreds of laborers who have been provided with work for the maintenance of their families by his energy and industry. And the poor come also to pay a last tribute to their benefactor.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter offered the prayer and the benediction was then given.

Upon the conclusion of the services the coffin was brought out and placed upon a bier in front of the door, on the sidewalk. The crowd then formed in procession and filed past, taking a look at the face of the deceased. Captain Waddy and the off platoon of the Forty-third precinct police were on duty, and were efficient in promoting the best possible order in the neighborhood. A more quiet and orderly assembly was never congregated.

The funeral cortége was formed and moved in the order subjoined:—

Master mechanics and builders, 250 strong, under the marshalship of Supervisor James Howell, Jr.

Employés of the deceased, 200 strong, marshalled by Mr. William Taylor, their late foreman.

Atlantic Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Brooklyn Chapter, Free and Accepted Masons.

Nassau Lodge Free and Accepted Masons.

Hearse, containing the remains, drawn by two black horses and surrounded by the pall-bearers.

Two hundred carriages containing the relatives and friends of the deceased, city officials and others.

Company C, Thirteenth regiment, National Guard.

Members of the Brooklyn Yacht Club.

Representatives of the Prospect Fair Ground Association.

The remains were interred with Masonic honors at Greenwood Cemetery.

Coroner's Inquest—Evidence Relative to the Shooting.

The inquest touching the death of Mr. D. S. Voorhees, who was shot in Peter Fogarty's liquor saloon on Sunday night by William Chambers, was resumed at eight o'clock last night by Coroner Jones, in the Superior Court room, in the Kings county Court House.

TESTIMONY OF MR. FOGARTY.

Peter Fogarty, the proprietor of the liquor saloon, took the stand again and resumed his testimony:—McClellan and Seery went up to the bar to take a drink, and McClellan asked me to drink with him; I told him I was drinking some wine, and asked him to have a glass with us; I said, "McClellan," and Mr. Voorhees hearing me, asked "Are you anything to George B. McClellan?" he said no, he was a Scotchman; Mr. Voorhees said he rather thought McClellan was a Scotchman, or of Scotch descent; he said, "You have the name of a man who is highly esteemed;" this man Chambers was standing at the lower end of the bar, and he said, "God d—n McClellan!" he then made a jump back, pulled out a revolver and fired; Mr. Voorhees fell, and when I saw the flash I turned to see whether Mr. Voorhees was shot, and on examination found that the wound was just over the eyebrow; I said to Mr. Tuhl, "My God! Mr. Voorhees is shot—what shall we do?" he said, "Send for a doctor;" we then gave the alarm to let the police know; we also guarded the door to prevent Chambers from getting away; he made no effort to get away, and Mr. Tuhl then said let us go in and take the pistol from him; I said we had better not, for the police will be here in a moment; he went in and I followed him; he caught Chambers by the throat and the barkeeper jumped over the bar and helped to take the revolver from him; there were six of us taking the pistol from him; shortly after officer Metcalf came in and arrested him; Drs. Ford and Cochrane came and Dr. Ford probed the wound and said he thought it would prove fatal or something to that effect; we then sent for Mr. Bunker, and the police came with him and took Mr. Voorhees away on a stretcher; the last time Chambers came in he did not speak to any one—(pistol exhibited by the Coroner)—that is like the one he had; while they were in there Chambers appeared to be uneasy because Mr. Voorhees talked to Duffy; Chambers did not appear to be much intoxicated.

Witness said when they were taking the pistol from Chambers he struggled very hard; they found the pistol in his breast pocket, and in getting it they tore his pocket out; Chambers was not within two feet of anything when he fired; he just raised up his hand (witness showing the position) when Mr. Voorhees fell; witness said he thought he had only dodged to escape the shot, but on turning around he found he had been shot.

TESTIMONY OF ANOTHER EYE WITNESS.

Edward Tuhl was next called to the stand, and testified that he was present in Fogarty's saloon, in Columbia street, on Sunday night, and saw several persons there; Mr. Duffy and Mr. Voorhees took hold of each other's hands and walked about twelve feet along the bar; Chambers said, "I don't know what they are about;" Mr. Voorhees walked over to Chambers and said, "You don't know nothing about it;" Mr. Voorhees tapped him on the shoulder in a friendly manner, and said—"You know more about it than Duffy;" he then asked him to come and take a drink, and wanted to know how he got some scars on his forehead; hoped he would excuse him for asking; Chambers replied that he got the scars from a lot of thieves and robbers; after they had drank wine several times Chambers said he was as good a man as any one else; he wanted them to have some wine with him; he called for a bottle of wine, but there was not more than a quarter of it drank; asked Mr. Voorhees to go home with me; told him I would go as far as Court street with him; Mr. Fogarty said, "No, you can't go till you have a drink with me;" Mr. Voorhees took his coat and I think had a notion to go home at that time, but he turned and said, "We'll have a drink with Pete anyhow;" about this time Chambers came back; I don't think Mr. Voorhees saw him come in, but when he saw him at the end of the bar he said, "Halloo, there is our old friend again;" McClellan and Seery then came in and took a drink; heard Chambers muttering at and damning somebody; heard him say that he was a good man and a true Irishman; he made the remarks very quick; put his hand in his vest pocket, pulled out his revolver and pointed it right towards where Mr. Voorhees, Mr. Fogarty and myself were standing; he then fired and shot Mr. Voorhees in the head; after I saw the flash I looked right at Chambers to see what he was going to do next; he looked right towards the wall, where the ball went; the bartender asked him to take a drink, when he put the revolver in his pocket; I did not think any one was hurt until I observed Mr. Voorhees lying on the floor; Fogarty started to go out, but I said "Don't go, for we must not let him get away;" Forgarty said "He might shoot one of us;" I said "I'm going for him any how;" I went up to the bar, called for a drink and asked him to have a glass of ale; he took the glass, when I grabbed him and took the revolver from him; found four dollars and thirty cents upon the floor near where Chambers' head was when we were taking the revolver from him; I remarked to McClellan that he was a queer looking genius; I thought he was a queer genius because he threw the wine on the floor; he seemed to look wild about the eyes; he seemed to be sober the first time he came in; he did not seem much intoxicated when he came in the second time; he said he was a true Irishman and a Fenian; I said, jokingly, "Yes, you are a Fenian and we are all Know Nothings."

Testimony was also given by Joseph Dowling and Nicholas McCall, bartenders, and officer Metcalf in relation to the affray and the arrest of Chambers, but no new points were elicited.

The inquest had not adjourned up to a late hour last night.

Indignation Meeting—The Master Builders Call for Reform in the Administration of Justice and Suppression of Crime.

At an adjourned meeting of the master builders held yesterday morning Mr. W. H. Hazzard offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:—

Whereas the city of Brooklyn has been suddenly startled by the cry of murder, in the striking down of one of its well known citizens, Mr. D. S. Voorhees, by the hands of an assassin, whereby the community is deprived of a useful, honored member and his family of the richest boon on earth—a priceless husband and father; and whereas the frequency of such horrible crimes are being enacted in our midst, thereby giving us the opprobrious name of the City of Crimes as well as the honorable name of the City of Churches; therefore,

Resolved, That unless the law for crime is more summarily dealt out to the offenders we fear the consequences will be seriously and fatally injurious to our prosperity as a city.

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed by the chairman to call a meeting to take into consideration the objects embraced in the above preamble and resolutions, with power to call a public meeting at such time and place as to them may seem proper.

Mr. Hazzard took occasion to remark that the increase of crime in Brooklyn was tending greatly to injure the business credit and reputation of the city.

Mr. Henry Harteau hoped that the committee would take into consideration the abuse of the Police Department, the management of which, he said, was in the hands of politicians of both parties, and was so bad that there was no longer proper protection accorded to life and property. The increase of houses of prostitution and the incapacity of police justices were subjects which called for reform.

Messrs. J. French, J. Merton, A. Allen, W. H. Hazzard, H. Thomas, J. Howell, Jr., and H. Harteau were appointed a committee by the chair, and the meeting adjourned.

The remains of an unknown man, about forty-five years of age, dressed as a 'longshoreman, were found floating in the basin near the foot of Thirty-sixth street, East river, and conveyed to the Morgue for inquest before Coroner Rollins, who was notified.

A mass meeting of colored soldiers was held last night at Zion church, in West Tenth street, when it was resolved to get up a grand parade of the colored men of New York and a demonstration at Cooper Institute in the evening in honor of the passage of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution as soon as its ratification shall have been officially announced from Washington.

Ellen Quinlan, a young girl eighteen years of age, was taken from a low den in Greene street on Wednesday night by officer Smith, of the Eighth precinct, and yesterday morning arraigned before Justice Cox, at Jefferson Market. Upon complaint of her mother, who resides at No. 118 East Eleventh street, she was sent to the House of the Good Shepherd.

Last evening the First Baptist Mariners' Sunday School held their twenty-third anniversary in the Temple, corner of Oliver and Henry streets. After prayer by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. L. Hodge, and the singing of a chorus by the school—which, by the way, was done in most excellent manner—Mr. William Least delivered the "opening address." All the duets and many of the choruses were rendered in very good style.

A memorial was issued yesterday on the subject of the depression in American ship building, which, when a number of signatures are attached to it, will be presented to Congress by Congressman John Lynch. It evinces the spirit of patriotism which pervades documents of a similar nature that have lately been issued, but is disapproved of by the mercantile associations here. Its provisions are admission, free of duty, of all articles used in construction, free supplies to vessels, bounty on American iron and in construction equal to the amount of duty on imported iron, and the granting of subsidies to bona fide American vessels.

The Theta Delta Chi Association, one of the oldest college secret societies, held its twenty-third annual convocation at the Astor House yesterday. Delegates were present from the charges at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy; Lafayette College, Penn.; Hobart College, N. Y.; Hamilton College, N. Y.; University of Rochester; Dartmouth College, N. H.; Tuft's College, Mass.; Dickinson College, Pa.; Brown University, R. I.; Washington College, Va.; William and Mary College, Va.; Kenyon College, Ohio. The fraternity was never in a more flourishing condition. It numbers among its graduates some of the most eminent men in all the professions and civil walks of life. To-night the fraternity will enjoy a grand reunion and dinner at the Astor House.

The name of the man who recently blew out his brains in Nineteenth street, near avenue B, proves to have been John Kempf, a native of Germany, sixty-six years of age, who lived at No. 9 Stanton street. Deceased was very saving and penurious, and wished his wife and children to labor constantly, then gave him their earnings to deposit in the Dry Dock Savings Bank. On the morning of the occurrence Mrs. Kempf asked her husband for some money, which so irritated him that words ensued, and while in a great passion he started off, and, placing the muzzle of a loaded revolver in his mouth, discharged it, and thus ended his miserable existence.

Nicholas C. Lawson, a man seventy-six years of age and a native of New York, committed suicide yesterday, at the corner of Perry and Washington streets, by swallowing a quantity of Paris green. About thirty years ago Mr. Lawson became connected with the Croton Water Department of this city, and remained there till six or seven years since, when he retired. At intervals since Mr. Lawson has acted strangely, which indicated to members of his family that he had softening of the brain. Occasionally he told his daughters that he intended to take laudanum, but as he failed to execute any of his threats their fears at length became quieted. On Tuesday Mr. Lawson secured some Paris green which had been kept in the house for the purpose of killing rats and swallowed it. As soon as the family learned what he had done a doctor was summoned and antidotes administered, but without effect, and death ensued at five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

A magnificent collection of mineral specimens presented by the Russian government to Columbia College is being unpacked and labelled for exhibition in the mineralogical department of that institution. There are over 800 different specimens in the collection, including rare pieces of beryl, phenacite, ouvarovite, or chrome garnet, lapis lazuli, Amazon stone, penninite, wolchonskoite, corundum, chrysoberyl and malachite. The work of arranging and labeling is carried out by Professor Egleston in the most perfect manner, better than is the practice in any other school of mines. Each specimen's label bears upon it the name of its species, its chemical composition and crystalline form, so that the student or visitor has the nature of each mineral fully set forth, and can familiarize himself with it without the necessity of reference to catalogues. A number of visitors were at the college yesterday to see the new specimens; but a few days are yet necessary to complete the preparations for their exhibition.

In several of the cases of seizure of stocks of distilled spirits in the Thirty-second district, recently made by Collector Bailey, the parties interested have made urgent representations at Washington that they were in danger of financial ruin in consequence of the proceedings taken, and in some cases strong political influences have been invoked to procure a stay of proceedings or a revision of the action of the Collector and of District Attorney Pierrepont. In order to ascertain what weight should be given to these representations Commissioner Delano has come on from Washington and has spent the last two days in a careful examination of the several cases of seizure. These examinations have been conducted under the direction of District Attorney Pierrepont, Collector Bailey, and his special counsel, Mr. B. F. Tracy, the District Attorney of the Eastern district, being present. In all the cases examined the Commissioner and the District Attorney thoroughly endorse the action of the Collector, and recommended the continuance of the prosecution in each instance.

The Government Postal Telegraph System—Too Much Work.

LONDON, Feb 17, 1870.

In the House of Commons the Postmaster General again alluded to the irregularity of the telegraph service, and regretted that his hopes of improvement had not yet been realized. He explained that recent storms and defective insulation had interfered with the working of the wires while at the same time the lines were overloaded with despatches by the rival news companies. The government was unable to forward all the news reports offered, and some compromise was indispensable.

Mr. Forster then rose, and asked of the House leave to bring in a bill providing for elementary education in England and Wales. He spoke in general terms of the value of education, and pronounced the present system deplorable. He then gave a sketch of the bill. It proposed to divide England and Wales into educational districts Grants were to be made under certain conditions, to be ascertained by inspection, and, where needful, compulsory rates would be imposed to supply any deficiency of aid from the State, local inspectors were to be elected; parents, when able to do, were to pay school fees; all others were to receive free tickets admitting their children to the schools; in every poor section education was to be entirely free.

General debate followed the introduction of the bill, Messrs Montague, Dixon, Mundella, Wheelhouse and others participating.

Mr. Walter made a speech in support of the bill.

Mr. Fawcett wished to have attendance at school made compulsory.

Sir J. Pakington argued against the measure and Mr. Forster met his objections and promised that the House should have time for deliberation.

The bill was then read for the first time, and the House adjourned.

GREAT FIRE

Destruction of an Extensive Woollen Mill in Philadelphia—Loss $460,000—Insurance $224,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17, 1870.

The extensive woollen mills of John P. Bruner, on Hamilton street, extending over the whole block between Twenty-third and Twenty fourth streets, took fire this morning, and the main building was entirely consumed. The fire commenced in the third story of the weaving room, but from what cause is not known. There were no hands employed in this portion of the premises. Those working occupied the second, third and fourth stories of the Hamilton street front. The first intimation was a strong smell of smoke, which was first perceived by one of the number engaged on the fourth story, who immediately rushed down stairs and informed the engineer, who stopped the engine. The flames speedily worked their way upwards and the upper floors giving way the immense weight of machinery was precipitated earthward, covering all the lower floors with it, together with an immense mass of burning material, which soon served to kindle the fires in all the rooms. The wind blowing strongly from the south aided the fiery demon in the work of destruction. At ten o clock the flames had devoured the whole interior, and the Hamilton street wall fell with a deafening crash into the street, carrying the roof with it and scattering the firebrands far and near.

Bruner's mill was one of the largest in the Union, and complete in every respect It stood on the site of the old mill destroyed in 1851, when three lives were lost and many injured and had been again destroyed by fire a few years since. The main building was of stone structure, seven stories high. To-day the full force of employés, numbering some 700 hands, were not employed, owing to a difficulty about wages. The firm is composed of James P. J. Stanley and H. P. Bruner.

Only the main building being destroyed diminishes the loss on the building and machinery from the amount first stated The building destroyed was valued at $260,000, the stock and machinery $200,000. Upon this there was an insurance of $224,000 There was $25 000 insurance in the North British and $75,000 in the Manhattan companies, of New York.

NOVA SCOTIA.

Opening of the Legislature—Speech of Lieutenant Governor Doyle.

HALIFAX, Feb. 17, 1870.

The Nova Scotia Legislature opened to-day. Lieutenant Governor Doyle said it was his pleasing duty to inform the House that the reception given to Prince Arthur in this province afforded gratification, not only to his Royal Highness, but to the Queen, as proof of the loyalty which animates her Majesty's subjects in this ancient colony. The completion of the Windsor and Annapolis Railway was a matter of congratulation. He expressed the hope that measures would be adopted to induce the Dominion government to extend the railway to Digby and Yarmouth west and Cape Breton east. A measure for the amendment of the higher law court statutes would be submitted. A correspondence between the Dominion authorities and Nova Scotia government relating to the fisheries, trade, taxation, finance and constitutional changes would be laid before the House. He strongly recommended that the subject of immigration should receive earnest attention; regretted the diminution in the receipts of gold and coal fields, and expressed satisfaction that the revenue from the sale of crown lands is in excess of the estimated amount. He expressed thankfulness to Divine Providence for the bountiful harvest, which was above the average quantity and quality last year. The fisheries also were very successful. He said that with open markets for the natural productions Nova Scotia would be one of the most prosperous countries in the world. He relied upon the patriotism of members to develop and utilize the great and manifold resources with which kind Providence has blessed this portion of her Majesty's dominion.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Arrival of the Steamship Japan at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16, 1870.

The steamship Japan, from Hong Kong January 12 and Yokohama, Japan, on the 24th, arrived at half past ten o'clock to night. Her list of passengers, which is unusually small, includes M. Hengelmuller and Colgate Baker, for New York. The merchandise by this steamer to go overland to New York includes fifty-seven boxes of tea, thirty-four packages of silkworm eggs, one case of silk, and for Europe fifteen bales of silk. The Japan spoke the steamship America, hence for China, all well.

CHINA.

Moderate Winter—Financial and Commercial Matters—The French Treaty—Movements of United States Vessels.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17, 1870.

Advices from Hong Kong, China, by the mail, are to the 12th of January.

The winter in China had been unusually moderate. Freights to Cheefoo were better, and all the vessels were finding employment. The water in the Hankow river was low, and but little business doing in that province. Three vessels have been chartered at Shanghae to carry Chinamen to New Orleans. The British schooner Ada was totally wrecked on January 5 on the "East Saddles" and three lives were lost.

Unprecedented advantages were expected to be obtained by the French treaty now under consideration.

The United States steamer Ashuelot arrived at Shanghae on January 9. The Monocacy left for Hong Kong on the 11th.

JAPAN.

Extensive Fires in Yokohama—Enforced Departure of Native Christians—Telegraph Line—Financial and Commercial Matters—Trouble Brewing—Shipwrecks—An Embassy to Foreign Countries—Miscellaneous Items.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17, 1870.

The mail steamship Japan, which arrived last night, brings Yokohama (Japan) advices to the 24th of January. Extensive fires had occurred in that place. The buildings chartered by the Mercantile Association of Yokohama, and the premises of Stilwell, Thayer & Co, had been partially destroyed by fire. The War Department buildings of Joddo had also been burned

Authentic information from Nagasaki conveys the intelligence that the government of the Mikado had enforced the departure from the mainland of 700 native Christians, against the unanimous protest of the foreign representatives.

The rice crop of the province of Echizen is a total failure, and the government has prohibited the exportation of rice from Higota, except by special license, as provided by the treaties with foreign Powers.

A telegraph line between Jeddo and Yokohama has been completed, the first message having been sent over the wires on the 7th of January. The line will be thrown open to mercantile purposes very soon.

The United States steamer Oneida sailed for Hong Kong on the 2d of January, leaving the American interests in Japan entirely unprotected at a time when trouble is likely to occur at any moment The daimios are constantly making large purchases of arms and munitions of war. They also exhibit much enterprise in the development of their mineral resources, employing experienced foreigners to engineer the mines.

The new year—which begins on the 1st of February—is expected to bring important political changes. Jeddo is quiet, but the city is strongly guarded by Satsuma's men.

The British bark Ellery was lost December 10 on Mattalas Reefs. She had on board a lighthouse for the coast of Japan and the machinery for a government mint at Osaka.

The British brig Runnimede is a total wreck on the eastern coast of Japan, but no particulars of the disaster have been received.

An embassy will be sent next summer by Japan to the United States, France and England. The new American Minister to Japan is popular, and is complimented for his prompt attention to the wants of his countrymen and the interests of our government

The Japanese government is compelled to import large quantities of rice from Saigon, Siam and Cochin China, to prevent great suffering among the people

A total eclipse of the moon was observed at Yokohama on the night of the 17th of January.

The import market has reduced its operations to sugar and rice, which are in fair demand, owing to the failure of the crops in Japan.

The silk arrivals for the fortnight foot up about 300 bales; settlements, 800 bales, stock, 1,500 bales. Prices are steady and unchanged.

There is a steady business in teas, and prices for medium to fairest have advanced 2 taels per picul on last quotations. The stocks have been much reduced and but little more is coming forward. The Westoury sailed January 9 with 321,000 pounds for New York. The Crest of the Wave and Havelock are loading for New York and the Alpheus is loading for Boston.

A $6,200 BURGLARY.

Daring Attempt to Take Life in Massachusetts—The Villain Caged.

Yesterday afternoon detective James Kealy, of the St. Nicholas Hotel, effected the arrest of one of the most desperate villains who operates outside of the States Prison. The arrest was made in Broome street, while the ruffian was chaperoning a flashy dressed female. The particulars of the case are of a very interesting character.

On the 27th of November last a New York thief and burglar, named Charles Williams, alias Robbins, turned up in the little town of Hollyoke, Mass, put up at the best hotel and for a few days created quite a sensation in that quiet community of abolitionists and free lovers. On the 1st of December he called upon a wealthy farmer named E. H Ball, residing in the suburbs, and professing to be an extensive New York tobacco merchant, opened negotiations for the purchase of Mr. Ball's crop of that article. They failed to come to terms and Williams took his departure

About two o'clock on the following morning Mr. Ball was startled by a noise in his bedroom. Springing up he saw three men in the room, which contained a safe and a considerable sum of money. As he raised himself up in the bed Williams, who was of the party, sprang into the bed and placing a knee on the breast of each—Ball and wife—drew his revolver and threatened to kill them if they gave an alarm. Mr. Ball was forced to be an inactive witness of the operations of the ruffians, who secured the key of the safe, opened it, and took therefrom six $1,000 negotiable bonds and $200 in currency. After securing their booty they made their escape, and Williams that morning was missed from his hotel.

While "splurging" around Hollyoke a man residing there named Stevens was frequently seen in his company. Suspicion fell upon Stevens, who was arrested. He gave important evidence implicating Williams, who in the meantime had been traced to this city. A warrant was issued for Williams' arrest a requisition secured from the Governor and Sheriff Bradley came on here to effect his capture. Placing himself in communication with Kealy, they traced him from various points in the city, and finally arrested him as already stated. The desperado was taken to Hollyoke last evening, after being confined at police headquarters As the citizens of Hollyoke are not blessed with New York aldermen, Williams will likely get twenty years in the State Prison

The bonds were not recovered, they having been negotiated, but the purchaser is known and they will likely be secured. It is said that Stevens will likely be convicted as an accomplice.

THE ICE QUESTION.

Hotel Keepers in Council.

A meeting of the hotel keepers of New York city was held last night at the St. Nicholas Hotel for the purpose of taking concerted action to obtain ice at lower rates than those announced for the season by the ice companies. Mr. R. French presided and Mr. P. R. Stetson was elected secretary. After considerable discussion, in which it was stated that the ice companies were making a profit of from thirty to fifty per cent on gross receipts, and that all companies in this city were controlled by one management, it was proposed that a company be organized, with a capital of $200,000, for the purpose of supplying shareholders in the company with ice at rates which should not give a profit exceeding one dollar per ton. It was also proposed to invite the brewers, fish, poultry and meat packers and other large consumers of ice in the city to join in the movement, which it was thought would keep ice at a low price and at the same time pay a remunerative interest on the capital invested in the stock of the new company. Several gentlemen expressed their readiness to take stock in various amounts from $10,000 to $30,000 each, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Earle, of Earle's Hotel; Hawkes, of the St. Nicholas, Darling, of the Fifth Avenue; French, of French's Hotel, and Reed, was appointed to procure information on the ice question and report at the next meeting.

After the disposal of the ice subject for the evening, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Burrows, Griswold, Earle, Hawkes, Hildreth, Stetson and Coleman, was appointed to distribute circulars among all the hotel keepers of the principal cities in the United States calling for concerted action to influence Congress to repeal that part of the revenue laws which imposes a tax of five per cent on hotel rentals. The petition already prepared for presentation to Congress, elaborately sets forth numerous reasons for the repeal of this law, the principal among which are that the revenue taxes paid by hotel keepers are seven and one-half times greater than those paid by merchants on the same amount of capital, and that the effect of the tax of five per cent on rentals is not at present in accordance with the intention of Congress when the law was enacted.

The subject of bringing before the State Legislature the subject of the quality and price of gas in New York was also discussed, and the meeting finally adjourned to meet at the Fifth Avenue Hotel next Thursday night to receive and act upon the report of the Ice Committee.

THE STATE CAPITAL.

Interesting Proceedings in the Legislature.

Proposed Abolition of the Office of Surrogate of New York—Important to Joint Stock Associations—Another Legislative Recess.

ALBANY, Feb. 17, 1870.

This being general order day in the House the regular business had to be suspended, because there was quite a rush of new bills ready for presentation. As the Legislature will adjourn to-morrow for the usual Washington's birthday recess there was an effort made to accomplish as much work to-day as possible.

A GOOD MEASURE,

that of Mr. Husted, of Westchester, to compel savings banks, insurance companies and other associations of like character to turn over the unclaimed money in their hands to the State Treasury for the use of the public schools. It is ascertained that nearly four or five millions of dollars are lying in the hands of these corporations, the property of people who are dead, or passed out of memory, or are without heirs and hence there are no claimants for these funds. Mr. Husted's bill comes in, therefore, very appropriately. It will no doubt be read with great interest by thousands who may have half forgotten claims against the savings banks.

IMPORTANT TO THE SHIPPING INTEREST.

Mr. Kiernan introduced a bill in the Assembly which provides that the Board of Health may grant permits to boats belonging to newspapers to board inward bound vessels in the upper or lower harbors of New York for the purpose of getting news.

A CONTRIBUTION TO THE PARK.

James Irving introduced a bill to day to transfer the Museum of Natural History, now located at the corner of State and Lodge streets, in the city of Albany, to the Museum of the Park. The collection is quite a valuable one, containing the celebrated Troy mastodon and other curiosities. As it is the property of the State there is no reason why the metropolis should not possess it. Country men who come to New York to see the elephant will probably find increased interest in the Park museum if this addition is made to it. Mr. Flagg, of Troy, has already a bill to move the collection to that city, but we think that New York has a prior claim. In the Park it would be open to all the world. In Troy it would be lost in obscurity. Irving is right and we hope his bill will pass. Let us have the mastodons and elephants by all means

SMITH AND FOLEY AGAIN.

When the bill legalizing the election of Henry Smith as Supervisor was called in Committee of the Whole to-day no one was found to move it. John H. White, the introducer of the bill, although in his seat, was silent. This is the second time it met the same fate. Have its friends abandoned it? Foley, meantime, has its case in the law courts on the Attorney General's quo warranto.

CONFIRMATIONS OF LOAN COMMISSIONERS.

The Senate in executive session to-day confirmed the following nominations of Loan Commissioners—Isaac M. Seybolt and Richard Brinkman, Orange county, N. C. Clark and William Gillespie, Sullivan county, Bela C. Smith and Eugene B. Mapes, Schuyler county.

JOINT STOCK ASSOCIATIONS.

The following bill, which was introduced into the Assembly by Mr Mosely of Kings, will be apt to make a stir among the shareholders in joint stock companies—

It shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to file all such articles of association as may be offered to him for that purpose under the foregoing sections of this act, and to furnish certified copies thereof to all such persons who shall demand the same upon their paying his reasonable charges therefor, and such certified copy of such articles of association shall be full and competent evidence in all courts in this State when and in such cases as the original articles of association would be evidence

SEC 4. All the associations named in the first section of this act shall, within three months from the passage of this act, provide by law for an election of trustees of such company, to be held within six months from the passage of this act, and annually thereafter, and the trustees elected at such election shall hold office for one year or until their successors shall be elected; and all the laws relating to the election of trustees or directors of moneyed corporations shall apply to elections of trustees in such companies, and in case any company or association mentioned in the first section of this act shall fail to hold such election within six months from the passage of this act or annually thereafter, then the Supreme Court shall upon the application of any stockholder, order such election to be held at a time and place to be fixed by said court, and the same shall be held accordingly

SEC 5 Every company or association consisting of seven or more than seven associates, copartners or shareholders, which shall hereafter be formed for the purpose of doing business for profit, and the capital stock of which shall be represented by certificates or scrip or divided into shares, shall, in its articles of association, provide for an annual election of trustees of said company, and the laws relating to elections in moneyed corporations shall apply to such election, and any company which omits from its articles of association such provision shall not be entitled to the benefits of any of the laws relating to joint stock companies, and all articles of association which shall not contain provision for such annual election shall be void and of no effect for any purpose whatever

SEC. 6. This act shall take effect immediately.

This bill is now before the Judiciary Committee.

ABOLITION OF THE CONTRACT SYSTEM ON CANALS.

The democrats of the Senate, in caucus this evening, agreed to the Hardenburgh bill to abolish the contract system on canals.

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

The Albanians evidently realize the power of imagination. A few days ago they were running vehicles on cutters in the mud all over the city and fancied that they had fine sleighing. What a beautiful thing is imagination! A soft and spring-like rain on Monday turned the pleasant slopes which constitute the principal streets of the capital into bubbling rivulets. Some enthusiasts of the Isaac Walton school, while peregrinating up the hill of State street actually inquired of a policeman what their chances would be for brook trout if they should cast a fly into the roaring stream. The policeman was a little bewildered, but was calm enough to say that he had not seen any trout passing down, but he saw a good many gudgeons who were looking for harbor masterships.

As to the crops there is only one crop which excites the interest of Albanians. It is the ice crop. The great farm lying between the banks of the Hudson raises no crop but this to day It is therefore a vital though a cool question. It looks better.

A Valuable Discovery.—The Celebrated Toilet Chemists, PHALON & SON, have introduced, under the name of VITALIA, or SALVATION FOR THE HAIR, an article which is unequalled and certain to restore gray hair to its natural color in from two to ten days. Of course this new article must at once take a leading position in the market. It is clear, limpid, has a pleasant odor, deposits no sediment, and is altogether a pleasant and attractive as well as efficient preparation. The proprietors state distinctly that its only object is to restore the original color of the hair, and that it is not intended or adapted to cure baldness, remove dandruff, or perform any other of the wonderful feats boastfully claimed as the results of using the slimy nostrums which were precipitated in the form of a foul sediment. The VITALIA, it seems, is not to be "used daily as a dressing," but only to be applied when the natural tinge that it produces needs renewing. To use it as a dressing would be to defeat its object. We like this honest candor, and the public, who have been humbugged quantum suff., in these matters, will also appreciate it.—From the daily Evening Sun, Feb. 1, Louisville, Ky

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Refusing to Appear and Testify as to Business.

Before Commissioner Shields.

The United States vs. James C. Kelley.—The defendant is charged with having refused to appear before Collector Pleasonton, of the Fourth collection district, in pursuance of summons requiring him to testify as to his business, he being a retail liquor dealer. The defendant was thus proceeded against under the fourteenth section of the act of 1865, by authority of which Commissioner Shields issued an attachment for his arrest. The defendant was brought before the Commissioner, and on consenting to testify was discharged.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

The Pneumatic Transit Company Litigation—Motion for an Injunction Denied.

Before Judge Cardozo.

The Mayor, &c., vs. The Pneumatic Transit Company.—The motion in this case was for an injunction restraining the defendants from prosecuting their work of placing pneumatic tubes under Broadway.

Judge Cardozo in rendering his decision said it was impossible to hold that the defendants were doing anything which under the acts of the Legislature they had not lawful authority to do, or that those acts were constitutional without differing from the opinions pronounced in the case of the People vs. Kerr. While that case stood he thought the present case must fail. He would add that he should, even if he did not regard the case as clear for the defendants, incline to hold that an injunction should not issue until the question had been passed upon by the General Term at least, because the defendants were shown to have incurred large expense and to have proceeded with the work upon the faith of a statute of the State, and the plaintiffs had suffered them to do so and to expend a large sum of money before raising any objection to their acts. Motion denied; costs to abide event.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART 2.

Action Against the Nassau Bank.

Before Judge Jones and a Jury.

Knox vs. The Nassau Bank.—When the foundations of the Nassau Bank were being excavated the foundations of the new HERALD building running down thirty feet it became necessary to sink the foundations of the bank to an equal depth. The defendants were, therefore obliged to shore up the foundations of the plaintiffs, and, in doing so ran needles through the wall into his basement and store. The plaintiff claims that there was an unnecessary delay in building the foundations, and in permitting the needles to remain through the walls to the detriment and interruption of his business, for which he now brings this action to recover $2,500 damages.

The defendants set up that there was no unnecessary delay, and that in the permission given by the plaintiff to carry on the work no time was fixed for its completion.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hackett.

SENTENCES.

At the opening of the court yesterday morning David Degan, who was jointly indicted with Joseph McGowan, charged with burglary in the first degree, pleaded guilty. On the 24th of January the dwelling house of Garret E. Winants was entered and a bronze ornament and clock stolen. Degan was sent to the State Prison for ten years.

Patrick Clifford, who pleaded guilty a few days since to burglary in the third degree, was sent to the State Prison for four years and nine months.

Charles From was tried and convicted of burglary in the third degree, he having, on the night of the 18th of January, burglariously entered the coffee saloon of James Thompson, No. 5 New street, and stolen forty dollars' worth of knives and spoons. He was sent to the State Prison for five years.

Thomas Cannill pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree. The store of Christopher Hackett, No. 400 East Sixteenth street, was burglariously entered on the 11th of January and fifty-two dollars' worth of boots stolen. He was sent to the State Prison for two years and six months.

James Welsh, a bad looking youth, pleaded guilty to an assault with intent to kill Mrs. Ellen Shields, residing at No. 85 Ninth avenue, on the night of the 9th inst. The statement of the prosecuting witness developed the fact that the assault was aggravated and inexcusable. It appeared that the prisoner, accompanied by Mr. Shields, went to the theatre and returned to the house under the influence of liquor. He persisted, contrary to the remonstrance of Mrs. Shields, in going into the bedroom where her daughter and other children were sleeping, and attempted to stab the girl with a small pocket knife. Her mother rose from the bed to protect her daughter, when Welsh inflicted two stabs upon her head. Mr. Shields informed the Recorder that the prisoner attempted to murder his father about Christmas time. His Honor in passing sentence said that intoxication was no excuse for crime, and that it was his duty to teach the community that such wicked and daring assaults will not be tolerated for a moment. Welsh was sent to the State Prison for ten years, that being the most severe penalty that the Court could impose.

Elizabeth Cowan, who was charged with receiving a small quantity of merchandise, the property of Samuel Feigenbaum, knowing it to have been stolen, pleaded guilty and was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

Lewis Dowdey pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree. He was charged with entering the premises of Samuel Feigenbaum, No. 329 West Fortieth street, on the 4th inst., and stealing $150 worth of shirts and drawers. The Recorder sent him to the State Prison for two years and six months.

The trial of Jeremiah Slattery, charged with perpetrating a felonious assault upon John Curran, on the 21st of January, by cutting him in the neck with a knife, was commenced. After two witnesses were sworn for the people the trial was adjourned till Friday.

The following is the calendar for to-day:—The people vs. Theodore Greenwald and Thomas Lyons, burglary; same vs. Henry Eigenking and Francis Zepeda, felonious assault and battery; same vs. Wolf Michaels, Michael Delaney, Annie Magoffin, William Schroeder, George W. Howard, Maurice Warschner, James Welsh, Eugenio Edwards Garcia, Andrew Hack and John Griffin, grand larceny.

EIGHTH DISTRICT CIVIL COURT.

Stakeholders' Liabilities—Political Bets.

Before Judge Kane.

Thomas Lynch vs. Michael Doris.—This was an action to recover the sum of $200 deposited by the plaintiff, with the defendant, as stakeholder upon a bet or wager made between the plaintiff and one George Devlin upon the result of the late election for Police Justice in the Eighth district, the candidates being Justice Ledwith and John Hardy. The parties deposited with the defendant, checks upon the New York County Bank, and it appeared that all parties kept their accounts in that bank. The defendant paid the amount deposited with him over to Mr. Devlin, who bet upon Mr. Ledwith, the successful candidate. There was some question as to the propriety of the payment by the bank of the check of the plaintiff by placing the amount to the credit of "Michael Doris & Co.," because the same was payable to the order of the defendant and not endorsed by him personally, but by a member of his firm under the style of Michael Doris & Co., and then deposited as claimed by the authority and direction of the defendant to the credit of the firm. The Court charged the jury upon the principal question involved in the case that under the revised statutes of this State bets are declared illegal and void, and that parties are entitled to recover the amount deposited by them on a bet from the stakeholder, whether paid over to the winner or not. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $200, the amount deposited by him with the defendant.

Before Judges Barnard, Gilbert, Tappen and Pratt.

Owen Hand, Plaintiff in Error, vs. The People, Defendants in Error.—On the 11th of August last the prisoner Hand, who was employed at the South Brooklyn gas house, stabbed and killed James O'Donnell, a fellow workman in the establishment. He was tried in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Judge Gilbert presiding, in October, and having been convicted of murder in the first degree was sentenced to be executed on the 3d of December. It appeared during the trial that on the day of the murder Hand and O'Donnell quarrelled with each other, and the foreman of the establishment, desiring to avoid any trouble, ordered the latter to quit work and go home. O'Donnell thereupon crossed to his own side of the house and commenced to change his clothes preparatory to leaving. A few minutes afterwards Hand walked directly up to where he was and the quarrel was resumed. O'Donnell made a pass at the prisoner, who drew a knife and stabbed him three times—in the left arm, left breast and abdomen. The wounded man fell to the floor, and Hand, after throwing the knife against the wall, said:—"There he is; now make what you like of him; I have killed him," and walked away.

Ex-Judge Moore, counsel for the prisoner, having appealed to the General Term on exceptions taken during the trial, the case came up for argument yesterday. Judge Moore's points were as follows:—

The revised statutes provide that the killing of a human being without the authority of law shall be murder or manslaughter, or justifiable or excusable homicide, according to the facts and circumstances of each case. The presiding judge at the trial charged the jury that in no aspect of this case could the prisoner be convicted of murder in the second degree. The Judge erred in his charge, because—First—It prevented a consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case and was virtually an instruction to find the accused guilty of murder in the first degree. Second—In creating a new degree of homicide (murder in the second degree) the Legislature intended to provide for cases of killing done purposely and maliciously, but without deliberate and premeditated malice. There was testimony in this case showing that this was just such a case. Third—Such an offence as murder in the second degree has long existed in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Fourth—The conviction should be set aside and a new trial ordered.

District Attorney Morris replied and the Court took the papers and reserved their decision.

COURT OF SESSIONS.

A Female Receiver Convicted.

Before Judges Troy, Voorhees and Johnson.

Ann Clements, a well dressed and respectably appearing woman, about forty years of age, who lived at 51 Talman street, was placed on trial for receiving property which had been stolen, by her two daughters, from the store of McElhinney & Stewart, 279 Fulton street. It may be remembered that one day last month the daughters, who are respectively nine and eleven years of age, were arrested for the theft, and subsequently sent to the House of Refuge by Justice Walsh. The police searched the residence of their parents, and found there the property which had been stolen by the girls. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clements were arrested and held to await the action of the Grand Jury, which body indicted them. At the time of their arrest they accused each other of sending their daughters around to steal from stores.

The jury yesterday convicted Mrs. Clements, who was thereupon remanded for sentence.

THE ULSTER COUNTY HORROR.

Death of the Victim—The Murder Wilful and Premeditated—Interesting Statements and Strange Sympathy.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Feb. 17, 1870.

Daniel A. Hasbrouck, the victim of the recent tragedy near Ollioville, Ulster county, died at seven o'clock this morning. Since his head was so fearfully chopped on Tuesday he has remained entirely unconscious, except for a moment on the afternoon of the day of the murder, while the physicians were removing pieces of bone from his skull. Then in great agony he simply ejaculated, "Oh, don't!" and since then spoke not a word.

THE MURDER PREMEDITATED.

Since the affair information has transpired which shows that the murder was wilful and premeditated. A dozen years ago or more Mr. Hasbrouck made a visit to the Ulster County Poorhouse, and while there observed a deaf and dumb negro boy, who went by the name of Levi. Taking a liking to him he resolved to bring him up, and for that purpose removed him from the Almshouse to his own country residence, where the negro soon learned to work and gave general satisfaction. After a year or two Mr. Hasbrouck, finding him disobedient at times, punished him, and the mute ran away, but came back again. Twice more he ran away, the last escapade occurring about six years ago. When he returned the last time it is stated that Mr. Hasbrouck punished him severely, and thenceforward the disposition of the mute was changed.

A tenant residing on Mr. Hasbrouck's farm, by coming daily in contact with the negro, had partially learned his dumb way of talking, and the mute gave the tenant to understand by significant signs and gestures that he would be revenged on the farmer when he became stronger and older. There were several such interviews between the two, and the tenant always made Mr. Hasbrouck acquainted with them, and constantly urged him to get rid of the man, as he was sure he would create mischief. Others who had been threatened by the prisoner also urged Mr. Hasbrouck to send him away. The latter, however, laughed off the advice, and always ended up by saying he could handle him. One year ago the negro was reproved again, and again he made his threats, this time more violent than ever.

A TUSSLE FOR THE AXE.

On the fatal morning, under instructions from Mr. Hasbrouck, the mute went to the wood pile and commenced chopping wood. Mr. Hasbrouck came up soon after and commenced to find fault about something. The sulkiness of the negro so noticeable the night previous and on the morning of the murder suddenly left him and from his eyes shot defiance, malice and revenge. Observing the mute's hand shaking nervously upon the axe handle and having a presentiment of danger, Mr. Hasbrouck suddenly grasped the handle too, and immediately a severe tussle ensued for the possession of the murderous weapon.

While thus they wrestled, the one for revenge and the other for life, a work girl seeing the conflict from the house, shouted "Murder!" and ran out of sight. Two neighbors hearing the cry ran towards the spot, and in the meantime the mute had succeeded in wresting the axe from Mr. Hasbrouck and sunk the blade into three different places in the farmer's face, the blood gushing from the wounds in streams. Breaking away from the murderer the poor man ran a short distance, closely pursued by the infuriated brute, who gave him another crushing blow, this time sinking the blade of the axe four inches into the left shoulder of the victim. Covered with gore, faint and dying, the poor man fell prostrate, and then, as if to make his fiendish work doubly sure, the frenzied mute as the neighbors approached the spot was seen braining his victim. As the farmer lay upon his face in the snow the negro, using the butt end of the axe, brought it down twice with terrible force upon the posterior part of the skull, crushing it in, and then, seeing the neighbors, started on a run across the fields, carrying the axe with him, but soon after dropping it in the snow. Going further, he waded through deep snowdrifts for an eighth of a mile till he reached the tenant's house. When he arrived there he proceeded to assist in unloading a load of wood.

A DUMB CONFESSION.

While at work he suddenly commenced to make gestures and signs, showing how he had been fighting with Mr. Hasbrouck, and imitated chopping with an axe. He was hardly understood at first, but the tenant, who, as previously stated, was fully conversant with his dumb way of talking, watched his gestures with fearful misgivings, which misgivings were greatly strengthened as a messenger hurried by for a doctor, the mute pointing at the latter and laughing. The entire affair was soon known by every one in the vicinity and the negro's arrest was effected without trouble.

SCENE IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT.

Yesterday afternoon the murderer, heavily ironed and tied hand and foot, was taken before a New Paltz justice. It was a singular court scene, and the room was crowded. Justice Hood could do nothing, because the prisoner could not hear or speak. Another deaf and dumb man was found who knew the mutes' alphabet, but the prisoner had never learned it, therefore could not enter into conversation. His gestures, which were, no doubt, full of the deepest meaning, availed nothing, and he was sent to Kingston jail. No one knows his true name. He is called Levi, and some say his surname is Bodine, but there is no proof of it. He is about eighteen years of age, short in stature, but broad-shouldered and heavy-fisted. His features are savage and repulsive.

OBITUARY.

MR. HENRY E. SWEETSER, well known in New York journalism, died in this city yesterday, aged thirty-three years. He was a native of Brooklyn, and graduate of Yale College. At one time he was connected with the Times and was subsequently associated with his brother in the management of the Round Table. He afterwards held a responsible position on a city paper, which he retained until his death. Mr. Sweetser was a hard, steady worker as a journalist. Personally he was a genial gentleman and a sincere Christian.

WILLIAM WILLIS, well known as the historian of Portland, Me., died in that city yesterday. He was an able lawyer and had filled many honorable offices.

THE BATTLE OF BRAINS.

The Field After the Contest—The Wounded and How They Are Getting Along—What Their Friends Say and How the Victors Act.

It would seem that the faculty of the New York College are to have a hard time of it for some time to come, judging from the present aspect of affairs, and all owing to the new system of "excellence" which they have lately adopted. They do not expect, nor have they, so far, experienced any opposition to their course from the Executive Committee of the Board of Education, which has special charge of the Free Academy. On the contrary, several of the committee have expressed themselves as highly delighted with the new state of affairs, and have cordially complimented the faculty on their good judgment in the matter.

HOW THE DEFICIENTS TAKE THE MATTER.

The "hard time," however, is to come, and has already made itself felt through the indignation and vexation of spirit of the parents of many of the "deficients." The latter, as a matter of course, are very sore over their fate, but the majority of them are sensible enough to know that they came to grief through their own negligence or the stinginess of nature, who did not see fit to gift them with a very great quantum of brains, and so satisfy themselves with grumbling mildly and making the best of it.

INDIGNANT PARENTS ON THE RAMPAGE.

Not so with many of their parental relations, particularly those who are blessed with a plethora of this world's goods, and who consequently cannot see for the life of them how on earth it is possible that their sons could be found "deficient," just as though they were the offspring of the mere hodcarrier, or cartman, or butcher, or what not—all that is not aristocratic in airs or nonsense. These people have not simply contented themselves with muttering their indignation to themselves, or kicking up a rumpus in the family circle, but have in several instances seen fit to order John to drive to the college and deposit them at the gate, whence they have strutted angrily to the room of the President and given him a piece of their mind.

TRYING TO MAKE AN IMPRESSION.

A lady called yesterday on General Webb, and announced herself as Mrs. ——. She is wealthy, at least her husband is, and she naturally felt that her silks and satins and her liveried servants, who stood at the gateway, and who could be seen from the President's window, would make a very strong impression upon the college folks—that is, an impression that would make them strike off from the black list at least one of the studies in which her son and heir had been laid out as "defecient."

THE FATE OF A BRIGHT BOY.

After seating herself in the chair which the courteous President placed for her near his table, and drawing a long breath, she blurted out:—

"Well, sir, I cannot see the justice of this thing at all. It's an outrage. It's a shame, and my husband"—

"Madam," interrupted the President, "your son was treated the same as all others."

"But what right—I say what right—have the faculty to decide what shall constitue a deficiency sufficient to have him withdrawn?"

"The same," replied General Webb, quite unmoved, "as it has to decide when a pupil should be expelled for bad conduct."

"My son is a bright boy."

"That being so he is all the more to blame not to have made good use of his talents."

"But, my dear sir," continued the excited lady, "it is an awful thing for us; all his friends know of it and it's a great disgrace, you know."

"I am very sorry, but he is responsible for it," was the simple answer.

"And the faculty?"

"They have done their duty."

"Then there is no hope of my son's being allowed to return?"

"There is."

"You don't say so; I am so glad. When shall I tell him to come?"

"Next June, when he will be examined like all other applicants," was the reply.

The lady saw the "point" and gracefully withdrew, satisfied that her son could get back after all—but not so soon as she desired.

BRAINS AND NOT FINE DRESS WANTED.

An irate gentleman called to see one of the professors about his son, who had also been shipped on the bark "Deficiency." He is a big man about town in more ways than one, and felt his own importance if the Professor did not. After a lengthy conversation he exclaimed,

"But my boy must come back."

"That is all very well to say," said the Professor. "Was he not as well conducted a boy as you have here?"

"He certainly was."

"And well dressed and of good morals?"

"I believe he was."

"Well?"

"All he wanted was this," gently remarked the Professor, as he tapped his own forehead with his open hand, to indicate that the boy would have been much benefited by an increase of his stock of brains. The interview here ended quite suddenly.

A DADDY'S RESOLVE.

Among others who called to plead their sons' cases was a cartman, who lives down town, and who had set his heart on seeing his boy graduate at the college with all the honors.

"Your son is naturally gifted," said one of the faculty, "but he did not study enough."

"Then it was all through his own fault that he had to go," exclaimed the man.

"That, and nothing more."

"And he can get back next June if he studies hard?"

"He can, and will be welcome."

"Then he'll study, or I'm not his daddy;" and the man went away as if determined to go straightway to his son, shut him up in a garret and make him "com learning" till the flowers of May are in bloom.

GOOD EFFECTS OF THE "NEW IDEA."

It need only be said in conclusion that the boys who have passed through the ordeal of the examination feel rather proud of the thing, and that the new system has instilled into the mind of every student the idea that he must study hard or he cannot remain in good standing in the college. The good effect of the system will doubtless be fully demonstrated at the next examination.

THE FORTY-FIRST STREET MURDER.

Post-Mortem Examination of the Body of Mrs. Sheridan, the Murdered Woman—Arrest of Powers, Her Paramour.

Dr. Shine, Deputy Coroner, held a post-mortem examination yesterday on the body of the woman Sheridan, who was shot dead by her husband, Thomas Sheridan, on Wednesday night, at 517 West Forty-first street. The examination of the body of the victim showed that two shots had been fired at her; the first entered the chin just below the lip and came out on the right cheek; the other, and no doubt the fatal shot, entered the fleshy part of the left arm, penetrated the body through the lungs and lower part of the heart, and came out under the left arm. The inquest on the body will take place to-day.

The man Powers, who was present in the room when the tragedy took place, was arrested yesterday morning by Sergeant McCullough, of the Twentieth precinct, and locked up in the cell next to that occupied by the prisoner Sheridan, in the station house, as a witness. The house in Forty-first street has been taken possession of by Mrs. O'Brien, the mother of the murdered woman. The children of the prisoner and the infant child of Mrs. Sheridan are still at the Thirty-fifth street station house.

Sheridan seems to be very wretched, and evidently very penitent; says he has no hope in this world and that it would be a mercy to hang him. He persists, however, in stating that while he did not know what he was doing when he drew the pistol from his pocket and fired he would have been killed by the infuriated woman and her bully paramour if he had not fired. He does not look like a desperado, but has the appearance and manner of a quiet, inoffensive man.

THE TOWNSEND MURDER.

At the sitting of the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday morning, Judge Ingraham presiding, District Attorney Garvin announced his readiness to proceed with the trial of John Reynolds for the murder of William Townsend. He would, therefore, move that the trial be now commenced. A. H. Hummel read an affidavit to the effect that W. F. Howe, counsel for the prisoner, was taken sick while preparing for the defence and would be unable to attend; that he had given the case great attention and he confidently asserted that he would be enabled on the trial of the case to present a legitimate and acceptable defence on behalf of the wretched and, as he believes, demented homicide. Under the circumstances he asked that the trial be adjourned till Monday next.

The District Attorney said he was entirely prepared and had all the witnesses in court. He had been preparing the case with great care, and thought the trial would commence. Still the matter was within the discretion of the Court, as he could not contravert the facts mentioned to the Court.

Judge Ingraham observed that as the counsel assigned was unable to attend he would adjourn the case.

The District Attorney insisted that it should be set down for Monday peremptorily, and advised the witnesses now in court to be in attendance on that day.

The court then adjourned.

During the entire proceedings the most earnest and inquisitive glances were directed towards the prisoner, who, though somewhat dejected looking, was seemingly unconscious of his situation. He looked about him carelessly, and was totally divested of the proverbial hang dog, furtive expression. On being conveyed to prison he was followed by an immense crowd of curious loungers, who glared upon the unfortunate like a pack of hungry wolves. The trial will doubtless excite considerable interest.

BROOKLYN CITY.

Funeral of Mr. Joseph Wesley Harper—Bergh After the Birds Again—Financial Statement of the Superintendents of the Poor.

The Sands street Methodist Episcopal church was thronged yesterday by citizens assembled for the purpose of taking part in the obsequies of the late Joseph Wesley Harper, of the firm of Harper & Brothers, publishers, of New York. The officiating clergymen were Bishop Janes, Rev. Mr. Kettle, Rev. Mr. Fletcher, Rev. Mr. Nedell, Rev. Mr. Andrews and Rev. Mr. W. H. Norris. Among the congregation were many prominent business men of New York and Brooklyn, who were personal friends of the deceased. The services were of an impressive order. The remains were taken to Greenwood for interment.

The premises occupied by Patrick Brennan, No. 207 Nassau street, where ale and other stimulants are dispensed, was visited by Mr. Bergh and a couple of his officers on Wednesday night, who put a stop to an interesting "set to" between two game roosters. The police of the Forty-second precinct aided the Bergh party and arrested the two feathered gladiators and several occupants of the place. Among the latter were Thomas Powell, William Smith, Deputy Sheriff P. Van Heyser, Thomas Barns, J. McNulty, Daniel Cassidy, Joseph N. Rhodes, James M. McNulty, Thomas T. Burke, James Murray, William Farrell, Michael Hanley, P. Bennen and Peter Haber. The prisoners were yesterday arraigned before Justice Welsh, and, pleading not guilty, were held to appear for examination on the 24th inst.

On Monday night last two boys, named Joseph Cohen and Edward George, aged respectively twelve and fourteen years, engaged in a quarrel while leaving a private school in Union avenue, E. D., and were separated at the door by the teacher. On reaching the sidewalk, however, the quarrel was renewed, and Cohen in his anger seized a brick and with it struck George a murderous blow on the face. The force of the blow caused George to fall on his back, and his head was badly contused by coming in contact with a paving stone. The injured boy was taken to the residence of his parents in Grand street, near Eighth, and medical aid was summoned. At first his injuries were not supposed to be of a serious character, but his condition was considered so critical yesterday that his father stated the case to Justice Voorhies, when that magistrate issued a warrant and caused the arrest of Cohen to await the result of George's injuries.

Coroner Jones was notified yesterday afternoon that an old woman named Mary Cassidy, residing in Douglas street, near Washington avenue, had died at the Flatbush avenue Dispensary, where she had applied for treatment for a dislocation of an arm. It appears that the woman called there and stated that she had sustained the dislocation by falling down stairs. Drs. Wilde, Blanchard, Courtelyon and Sterling commenced to replace the arm, but they found that the woman was suffering so much that it would be necessary to use chloroform. Dr. Wilde accordingly did so, when Mrs. Cassidy fainted, and in a few moments died.

From inquiries subsequently made by Dr. Wilde, it appeared that on Wednesday and yesterday Mrs. Cassidy was assaulted by her husband, who was under the influence of liquor. Her little son stated to the doctor that his father had returned home drunk and thrown billets of wood at her, and it also appeared from the statements of other parties that Cassidy was in the habit, whenever he got drunk, of abusing his wife. Mrs. Cassidy was about sixty-five years of age.

Coroner Jones authorized the removal of the body to the house in Douglass street, and will commence an investigation of the case to-day.

BOARD OF ASSISTANT ALDERMEN.

The Board met yesterday afternoon, and in the absence of the President Mr. Gibney was called upon to preside.

A number of unimportant resolutions were presented and referred.

WORTH STREET TO BE WIDENED AND EXTENDED.

A resolution was adopted directing the Counsel to the Corporation to take the necessary legal measures to have Worth street widened and extended by including within the street all the land northerly and westerly of a line drawn from a point on the south side of the street, about fifty-five feet west of West Broadway and extending to the southerly line of Jay street, at its intersection with Hudson street, and that the street be hereafter known as New Worth street.

The Croton Aqueduct Department was directed to have Macdougal street, from Spring to Eighth street, paved with Belgian pavement.

The Board adjourned to meet this (Friday) afternoon.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate yesterday the Driggs Land bill came up and gave rise to an animated debate. The bill appoints commissioners to drain the meadow lands of Hudson, Essex and Union counties. Messrs J. W. Taylor and Wiley opposed it bitterly on behalf of the people of Essex and Union respectively, but the bill was at length carried by 12 to 6.

The resolution concurring in the action of the House on the fifteenth amendment was ordered to be printed and a copy sent to the members representing the State in Congress. The resolution sets forth that the Legislature rejects the proposed amendment.

The amendments to the Newark Police bill were concurred in and the bill was passed.

The Jersey City Consolidation bill will come up for consideration on Tuesday next, and the members of the Legislature from the consolidated city have agreed to settle the question positively that the Aldermen elected in the spring of 1868 shall go out of office in the spring of 1870 and those elected in 1869 go out of office in 1871, and that hereafter they will be elected under the new charter for the term of two years.

JERSEY FRAUDS.

Prisoners Sentenced for Violation of the Stamp Laws—A Nice Point of Law.

In the United States District Court at Trenton, N. J., yesterday, Henning and Bonhardt, the Hudson City matchmakers, who were arrested last fall charged with making counterfeit revenue stamps and using cancelled stamps, were sentenced yesterday to one year each at hard labor in the State Prison.

Dr. James A. Petrie, of Elizabeth, was brought up for trial in this court for cleaning cancelled revenue stamps by a chemical process and selling the same, but his counsel putting in as defence that he was only technically guilty Judge Field reserved the papers to decide whether he was really or technically guilty.

INDIGNATION MEETING IN TRENTON, N. J.

A great deal of indignation has been manifested by the citizens of Trenton against the proposed amendment to the city charter, lately introduced into the Legislature, providing for the establishment of a select council, to be composed of nine members, who shall be elected at the general election, and have power to revise the action of the Common Council. The bill possesses many objectionable features and is opposed by a majority of the Common Council and citizens generally. A meeting will be held this evening to take measures against it, and petitions are being circulated calling for an indignation meeting.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WALL STREET, THURSDAY, Feb. 17—6 P. M.

Gold in its further decline to-day touched 119⅛, which is the lowest price for it since the 24th of September, 1862, or early in the days of the war. The natural weakness of the market was assisted by speculative sales on the part of persons interested in stocks and governments, who hope to influence a "break" in the latter by a lower range in the premium. The decline was resisted by the few "bulls" remaining in the Gold Room, who flooded the street with bulletins from Washington and elsewhere calculated to strengthen the market. Both sides have commenced to operate in these news despatches, and no sooner is a "bear" story afloat than the "bulls" follow it up with a version suited to their operations. The consequence to-day was a series of rival tissue sheets, intended to influence either side of the speculative strategy of the gold dealers. Holders of gold had their balances carried at rates ranging from six down to three per cent. The operations of the Gold Exchange Bank were as follows:—Gold cleared, $22,101,000; gold balances, $773,351; currency balances, $952,656. The chief fluctuations were as follows:—

10 A. M.	119⅝	3 P. M.	119⅜
10:35 A. M.	119⅜	3:40 P. M.	119¼
11 A. M.	119½	4 P. M.	119¼
11:06 A. M.	119⅜	4:45 P. M.	119⅛
12 M.	119⅜	5:15 P. M.	119⅛
1 P. M.	119½	5:30 P. M.	119⅛ a 119¼
2 P. M.	119⅜

Despite the various rumors set afloat regarding the limit of price and the amount to be sold the government disposed of a million of gold to-day at the Sub-Treasury to the highest bidders. The proposals were twenty seven in number, for a total of less than two millions, at prices ranging from 119.55 to 119.03.

THE MONEY MARKET

was steady at four to six per cent. but there was a more general employment of funds at five per cent among the government dealers. On stocks the rate was five to six, with the majority of new transactions at the latter figure. Commercial paper was without new feature.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

was active upon a fair demand from the importers, who seemed to have been impelled to buy freely by the decline in gold, but the leading bankers still disagreed as to rates, which were an eighth higher, and were quoted 109 a 109¼ for sixty day sterling and 108⅞ for good banker's. Short sight was steady at 109⅜ a 109⅝.

GOVERNMENTS UNSETTLED AND LOWER.

The contradictory bulletins above referred to and the decline in gold had the effect of rendering governments heavy. The market opened with considerable firmness in consequence of an advance to 88 for five-twenties in London and to 93 in Frankfort, the European market for our securities being especially strong on account of the weakness in gold here and the abundance of capital at low rates there. But with the "break" in gold to 119⅛ the market became feverish and declined, the "bears" pressing it with the report from Washington that the government would reduce the revenue about fifty millions next year. At the end of business there was a fractional rally in prices, which closed on the street as follows:—United States currency sixes, 111⅛ a 111⅜; do. sixes, 1881, registered, 117¾ a 118; do. do., coupon, 117¾ a 118; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 114⅛ a 114½; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 115 a 115⅛; do. do., 1864, do. do., 114⅛ a 114⅜; do. do., 1865, do. do., 114⅛ a 114½; do. do., registered, January and July, 113⅛ a 113¼; do. do., 1865, coupon, do., 113⅛ a 113¼; do. do., 1867, do. do., 113⅛ a 113⅝; do. do., 1868, do. do., 113⅛ a 113⅝; do. ten-forties, registered, 109⅜ a 109½; do. do., coupon, 112⅜ a 112⅝.

SOUTHERN SECURITIES

were generally steady in price and extremely dull. The Louisiana levee sixes declined to 70 upon the final passage of the bill to issue three millions more of levee improvement bonds. The market for these issues has been weak for some time, owing to the completion of the new State seven and eight per cent bonds. The North Carolina olds were strong on the report, of intended resumption of the interest-payment to be made in coin—which, of course, is a report and nothing more. The new bonds were lower on the pressure of sales of hypothecated bonds. South Carolinas dull and heavy. It is authoritatively denied that bonds of Florida are authorized to be issued except upon completed portions, and then upon well guarded securities. The following were the closing street prices for the leading bonds on the Southern list:—Tennessee, ex coupon, 55⅛ a 56; do., new, 49⅛ a 49¾; Virginia, ex coupon, 62½ a 62¾; do., new, 66¼ a 66¾; Georgia, sixes, 81 a 82; do. sevens, 92½ a 93; North Carolina, ex coupon, 46¼ a 46½; do., new, 25 a 26¼; Missouri sixes, 91⅛ a 91½; do. Hannibal and St. Joseph, 91 a 92; Louisiana sixes, 71 a 72; do. levee sixes, 70 a 70¼; do. do. eights, 82 a 83; Alabama eights, 94 a 95; do. fives, 62 a 63; South Carolina sixes, 87 a 89; do., new, 79 a 80.

STOCKS WEAK AND DECLINED.

The stock market, lacking the speculative support of the cliques and combinations who have been realizing since Saturday last, underwent a sharp decline. It opened barely steady at last night's prices, and became weak and heavy in the transactions at the morning board and during the interval to the second board, when there was a rally in some of the list, Pacific Mail and Ohio and Mississippi leading this upward turn. The announcement of an increase of $15,398 in the earnings of Rock Island, and of $35,953 in the earnings of Lake Shore for the third week in February, stayed the railways for a time and enabled the cliques to pursue their sales. But in the afternoon, with the decline in gold, and when the street was once more left to itself, prices went down by the run, particularly in the closing dealings in the Long Room, when Reading fell to 96⅝, Lake Shore to 88, Northwest common to 73½, St. Paul to 66 and Rock Island to 121¾. The Vanderbilt shares were also dragged down, and in a spasm touched 97⅜ for Central stock and 95⅞ for the scrip. The exception was Ohio and Mississippi, which moved counter to the general current and advanced to 30¾, being the "card" for the next "bull" movement, while Pacific Mail had a firm undertone, and when the "bears" left off selling it began to rise. The market is emphatically in the control of the cliques who have now realized but have not as a general thing sold "short," as the holders of stock in an easy money market are not so easily induced to let go, and hence would give the "shorts" a stubborn resistance. How far prices may decline under this unloading of the cliques it is impossible to conjecture, but as they have started the market downward they would rather have the street follow it down with "short" sales, and thus gave them the strength of a "short" interest when they step in to buy for the next "bull" movement. The highest and lowest prices of the leading speculative stocks were as follows:—

AFRICA.

Dr. Livingston's Case—Is He Alive or Dead?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LONDON TIMES:—

The enclosed letter from my son-in-law, Captain the Hon. Ernest Cochrane, commanding her Majesty's ship Petrel, on the West Coast of Africa, is at your service. It gives an account of the awful death which has terminated Livingstone's career. Your obedient servant, RICHARD DOHERTY.

RED CASTLE, County of Donegal, Jan. 31, 1870.

JANUARY 9, 1870.

MY DEAR SIR—A few lines to tell you Dr. Livingstone has been killed and burnt by the natives ninety days' journey from the Congo. He passed through a native town and was three days on his journey when the King of the town died. The natives declared Livingstone had bewitched him, sent after him, told him he had witched their King, and he must die. They then killed him and burnt him. This news comes by a Portuguese trader travelling that way. Livingstone was on the lakes at the head of the Congo, making his way to the Congo, where he was going to come out. I believe this news to be true.

Sir R. Murchison has sent a letter to the London Times explaining the grounds of his disbelief in the accounts of Dr. Livingstone's death. Other correspondents write to the same effect.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17, 1870.

General Banks' Cuban Resolution.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs had a session to-day on General Banks' Cuban resolution. Unfortunately there was not a full meeting of the committee, and no definite conclusion was reached. The subject was therefore postponed until the next meeting of the committee. A proposition was made to amend the resolution by authorizing the President to issue a proclamation similar in terms to that issued by Spain during the late rebellion, proclaiming neutrality between the United States and the rebels. It was evident that a majority of the committee are not disposed to go beyond a mere proclamation of neutrality as between the belligerents. General Banks was probably aware of this fact when he drew his resolution, and hence he did not go beyond that point. An ill-favored Yankee named Willard, from Vermont, is opposed to any action in favor of the Cubans. Unfortunately he is a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and the other day when General Banks introduced his resolution he moved to reconsider and lay on the table, so as to prevent the resolution from again being brought into the House except upon the regular call of the committee for reports. He it was who made such a windy speech a few days ago on Governor Swann's resolution calling upon the President for information as to the imprisonment of American citizens in Great Britain. He seems to be ambitious to imitate Senator Sumner in his dread of provoking foreign nations to declare war against the United States. Willard, it is understood, is doing all he can to to oppose the Cubans. Before the committee adjourned there was an understanding that at the next meeting a full attendance would be secured and definite action taken on the resolution.

A Scurvy Trick of the Hidalgos—The Spanish Government Paying Its American Creditors in Currency.

The House of Representatives some time ago directed the Secretary of State to furnish the reasons, if any, why the Spanish government has not paid in coin, according to the treaty of February, 1834, the interest upon the claims of American citizens, secured thereby, to be paid in Paris every six months, and which, it seemed, had not been distributed to American citizens holding inscription for interests; and further, whether any portion of such inscriptions has been distributed to creditors in legal tender notes, and if so, who has had the advantage of such differences between legal tender notes and gold or a bill of exchange on Paris. The Secretary of State reports to the President that, according to correspondence on record in the department, the Spanish government failed, through derangement in its finances, for many years after the negotiation of the treaty, punctually to pay the interest due the United States. The allegation of inability to make these payments appears to have been acquiesced in by the administration for the time being. Finally, however, in the year 1847 an arrangement was entered into, which has always been regarded as confidential, by which payment of the interest was to be made by drafts drawn in Havana on New York. It is understood that this arrangement was approved by the claimants, or a majority of them. Payment has been made with reasonable punctuality. After the passage of the Legal Tender act of 1862 payment appears to have been offered and accepted in drafts payable in currency, the payment to the United States being made in drafts drawn in Havana on New York payable in currency. The Department is not aware that any one, unless it be the Spanish government itself, has derived any advantages from the difference between coin and currency. On the accession of Secretary Fish to the Department of State he addressed a letter to the Attorney General for his opinion and received reply to the effect that as the law of 1862 expressly permits the payment of the debts due to the United States, except the duties on imports, in currency, he could see no reason to doubt that the United States are bound to receive from Spain the sums which may become due under the convention from time to time in the Treasury notes if the Spanish government choose to offer them in payment.

Proposed Reduction of Internal Taxation.

The Committee on Ways and Means yesterday commenced the consideration of the Internal Taxation bill, and voted to reduce the same $30,000,000. It was also decided to make a reduction of $20,000,000 in the Tariff bill.

Effort to Harmonize the Virginia Republicans.

There are in Virginia three separate central committees, each professing to represent the republican party. An effort is being made here by the Virginia members of Congress to reconcile the differences in the republican ranks, and a call for a State Convention, to be held soon in Richmond, has been prepared and signed by Senator Lewis and three members of each of the central committees. The gentlemen interested in this measure to-day called in a body upon President Grant, who received them most cordially, and complimented them upon inaugurating so important a movement, assuring them of his hearty sympathy, and that he would give them all the support in his power. Two of the delegates who called upon the President are colored men.

The Selling of Cadetships—Damaging Testimony Against a South Carolina Member.

The cadetship buying and selling investigation by the House Military Committee is becoming daily more interesting, developing as it does the peculiar methods some Congressmen are supposed to resort to in order to make both ends meet here and also to contrive a little profit out of the position of representatives of the people. Among the parties charged with selling cadetships is one from South Carolina, whose name I have heretofore suppressed, because of the difficulty in ascertaining whether there existed really any reliable evidence against him, or, in fact, any evidence at all. The name of this representative is B. F. Whittemore, of South Carolina, who has stated thus far in his own defence that the charges against him were made by a person who was prompted by personal spite. Without assuming to pass judgment for or against Whittemore's line of defence, I feel justified in telegraphing that to-day two more witnesses, Colonel Capehart and Mr. A. Schreff, an examiner in the Patent Office, testified before the committee this morning, and one of them stated positively that Mr. Whittemore offered to sell his cadetship for the sum of $2,000. The witness thus testifying asserted that he went to see Whittemore for a friend who desired to have his son appointed as a cadet. He asked Whittemore, it is alleged, whether he had a cadetship to dispose of, to which Whittemore answered, "Yes; there it is, and you can have it for $2,000. There are a good many applications, but you can have it for $2,000 now." The witness asserts that his object in approaching Whittemore was to obtain the appointment in a proper way, not by purchasing it, and that when he found that the representative was on the "make" he departed. It is not easy to get at the testimony before this committee and therefore I do not give you the above as positively accurate. It may be erroneous, and Whittemore may be the victim of a conspiracy, but I have obtained my information from a source entitled to credit. It is due to honest John Covode to state that the charges against him do not seem to be well founded. Remack, father of the young man who was said to have been appointed by Covode for a consideration, denies that Mr. Covode appointed his son at all, and therefore that he paid Mr. Covode himself any money or to any one else to pay over to honest John. Certain other members who are under a cloud of similar charges are feeling very unwell just about this time. They look serious, unhappy and sickly. The investigation is something they never dreamed of, in all probability, and it comes upon them with a crushing force. Logan, Slocum, Negley and other members of the Military Committee seem to be very earnest in the investigation, and if the charges are brought home to any members of the present House no mercy will be shown them, whether democrats or republicans, prominent or insignificant.

The McGarrahan Land Claim Decision.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court in the McGarrahan case was on the validity of an order of Judges Fisher and Olin, of the Court of the District of Columbia, made in vacation; directing the clerk to enter a judgment requiring the Secretary of the Interior to issue a patent for a large tract in California claimed by McGarrahan in opposition to the New Idria Mining Company, and reverses this so-called judgment, which was, in fact, no judgment, for the reason that it was entered in vacation by only two of the judges. The question involved in the decision was in regard to the authority of the two judges to issue a mandamus to the Secretary requiring him to grant a patent to McGarrahan under the act of July 23, 1866. It is understood that neither Chief Justice Carter nor Judge Wylie approved the order directing a mandamus to issue.

Meeting of the Peabody Fund Trustees.

The Trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund were in session to-day. Reports were made concerning the operations of the last six months. An appropriation of about $90,000 was made for educational purposes in the South, but no localities were named. Agents are to draw from the general fund under the direction of the Executive Committee. They adjourned until the second week in August. The next meeting is to be held in Philadelphia.

Bills Agreed Upon in Committees.

The House Committee on Commerce yesterday agreed to amend the inland port of entry bill so as to allow goods to be transported in bond to inland cities without breaking bulk. This will include in its provisions the cities of Portland, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, Milwaukee and Evansville, Ind.

The Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads to-day agreed to report the bill introduced by Senator Fenton giving the consent of Congress for the laying of tubes across the East river from Brooklyn to New York, and from New York across the Hudson or North river to the New Jersey shore, with an amendment that in the construction of said work the navigation of these rivers shall in no wise be impaired. The bill contemplates that when said tunnels or tubes are constructed they shall be deemed legal structures and be used as post roads for the transmission of United States mails.

The Senate Committee on Commerce have agreed to report a bill refunding to hospitals at different points of entry in the United States the amounts of expenses incurred by them in harboring and caring for disabled United States seamen who may have come under their charge.

The Consular Service bill was also under consideration, but little headway was made thereon.

It is stated that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has come to the conclusion to report Senator Morton's bill looking to the recognition of the Cubans, with some amendments.

Weekly Customs Receipts.

The following were the customs receipts for the week ending February 12 at the below mentioned ports:—Boston, $273,243; New York, $2,446,784; Philadelphia, $76,134; Baltimore, $136,987. Total $2,935,148.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

Second Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17, 1870.

JOINT RESOLUTIONS AND BILLS.

Mr. SUMNER, (rep.) of Mass., from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported a joint resolution authorizing the payment of the full salary of General Hovey as Minister to Peru, without deduction on account of absence from his post, and asked its immediate consideration. Passed.

Mr. McDONALD, (rep.) of Ark., from the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, reported a bill authorizing the construction as post roads of tunnel tubes for railway purposes from New York city to Brooklyn and the New Jersey shore, with an amendatory proviso that said tunnels shall not obstruct nor impair the navigation of the rivers.

Mr. WILSON, (rep.) of Mass., from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported without amendment a joint resolution to pass to the credit of the National Asylum for Disabled Volunteers the unexpended balance of the fund created by the seventeenth section of the act of February 24, 1864. Passed.

Mr. ANTHONY, (rep.) of R. I., introduced a bill incorporating the National Bolivian Navigation Company, and regulating the effect of a vote of thanks of Congress upon promotion in the navy. Referred.

Mr. SCOTT, (rep.) of Pa., from the Naval Committee, gave notice that the following resolution had been adopted for the government of the action of the committee:—That in the judgment of this committee Congress ought not to entertain application of officers for restoration to the naval service who have been dismissed therefrom by the sentence of a court martial, unless such restoration be recommended by the Executive Department.

Mr. DRAKE, (rep.) of Mo., introduced a bill amending the naturalization laws.

THE MISSISSIPPI BILL

was then taken up, and Mr. FOWLER, (rep.) of Tenn., resumed the floor. He defended the equality of the States and repudiated the assumption by Congress of any right to invade a State and usurp its reserved rights never granted to the federal government, or to declare what social relations shall exist in a State. He believed the exercise of unwarranted legislative power would result in the destruction of public liberty.

The bill was further discussed by Messrs. Sawyer, Warner, Thayer and Trumbull in favor of the amendments, and by Messrs. Sumner, Drake and Cameron in opposition. At the conclusion of Mr. Trumbull's remarks the Senate proceeded to vote upon the pending amendments and the bill.

Mr. Willey's amendment to repeal the conditions in the Virginia bill was defeated by yeas 23, nays 36, as follows:—

YEAS—Messrs. Bayard, Casserly, Conkling, Davis, Ferry, Fowler, Hamilton, Johnston, Kellogg, McCreery, Nye, Ross, Saulsbury, Sawyer, Sprague, Stewart, Stockton, Thurman, Trumbull, Vickers, Warner, Willey and Williams—23.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Anthony, Boreman, Brownlow, Buckingham, Cameron, Chandler, Cole, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Fenton, Gilbert, Hamlin, Harlan, Harris, Howard, Howell, McDonald, Morrill of Vt., Morton, Osborn, Patterson, Pomeroy, Pool, Pratt, Ramsey, Rice, Robertson, Scott, Spencer, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Wilson and Yates—36.

A vote was then taken upon the amendment of the Senate committee to strike out of the bill all conditions and simply declare the States entitled to representation, which was voted down—yeas 27, nays 32.

The following were the only changes in the vote:—Messrs. Cole, Fenton, Morrill of Me., Scott and Tipton voted aye, and Mr. Nye voted no. Mr. Patterson did not vote.

The bill was then read a third time and passed by a party vote of yeas 50, nays 11.

The Senate then, at half-past five o'clock, adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17, 1870.

PREVENTION OF POLYGAMY IN UTAH.

The House, immediately after the reading of the journal, proceeded to the consideration of the bill to prevent and punish polygamy in Utah.

Mr. CULLOM (rep.) of Ill., chairman of the Committee on Territories, explained and advocated the bill. He said that the condition of things in Utah determined beyond a question that it was the duty of Congress to do something in relation to matters there, and without delay. The Church, through Brigham Young, controlled the Territorial Legislature and the Legislature appointed the probate judges; and therefore it became necessary to substitute a United States judiciary for the Territorial one. There was not a member of the Legislature who was not a prominent member of the Mormon Church. No other could be elected. The leading Mormons who were practising polygamy in the face of federal authority should be rendered ineligible to vote or hold office. They were criminals running at large, and were no more qualified to hold office than those who were lately in rebellion. Gentiles who went into that Territory to settle were so persecuted that they could not remain there, and they were appealing to the government for protection in their rights of personal property. This bill proposed to place the condition of things there on such a footing as to offer inducements to immigration. He read a letter this morning from a gentleman of character and in an official position in Utah, stating that unless this bill, or some such bill, be passed every man who is not a Mormon will have to leave the Territory, and that very soon, or place himself where he will inevitably be murdered by the Mormons, who were now trying to organize a force against the passage of this bill. He had not the slightest idea that more than a few companies of soldiers would be necessary to enforce the laws in Utah. All that was necessary was to give to the courts the power to enforce convictions for violation of the law and to show that the government of the United States meant business and did not mean to temporize longer with that iniquity. It would be found that the people would submit to the authority of the government and would get rid of that relic of barbarism, which had been a stigma to the nation. He did not think the military strength of the Mormons could be exaggerated to over eight thousand men. He did not believe there would be any attempt to resist the authority of the United States by force of arms; but if there should be would the American people, fresh from a triumph over a great rebellion, shrink from an attempt to enforce the laws over such a small body of people? He denounced polygamy as an institution founded in the lustful and unbridled passions of men; as devised by Satan himself, and having gone hand in hand with murder, idolatry and all abominations.

The morning hour having expired the bill went over to the next morning hour.

PROTECTION OF AMERICAN COMMERCE.

Mr. LYNCH, (rep.) of Me., from the select committee on American navigation interests, reported two bills for the relief of commerce, which were ordered to be printed and made the special order for the third Tuesday in March next. They are the same bills the substance of which was published some days ago.

NEW YORK REPRESENTATIVE SWORN IN.

Mr. CHARLES H. VAN WYCK, in whose favor the contested election case from the Eleventh New York district was decided yesterday, appeared and took the oath of office.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. CALKIN, (dem.) of N. Y.—Of 500 cigar makers of New York city, for an increase of the tariff on cigars.

By Mr. STRONG, (rep.) of Conn.—From the book publishers of Hartford, Conn., for a specific duty on imported books; and also from Hartford merchants, regarding the duty on sugar.

By Mr. BARNUM, (dem.) of Conn.—For an appropriation to improve and protect the harbor of Bridgeport, Conn.

By Mr. STEVENS, (rep.) of N. H.—Against the extension of the patent of George H. Corliss for improvements in steam engines.

The House then, at half-past one P. M., went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. CESSNA in the chair, on

THE LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION BILL.

The discussion on the Court of Claims items occupied an hour and a half. All the proposed amendments were rejected.

Mr. WASHBURN, (rep.) of Wis., from the Committee on Appropriations, offered an amendment to reduce the item for the private secretary, assistant private secretary, &c., to the President $5,000, and to make it read "for compensation to two executive clerks at $2,800 each, and for the steward and messengers of the President, $7,440."

The discussion on the amendment occupied over an hour, and finally Mr. DAWES gave notice that he would have to ask the House to stop all debate on the bill.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. KELSEY, (rep.) of N. Y., moved an amendment of one of the items for the State Department, and characterized the Second Assistant Secretary of State as having been at heart, though not in action, a malignant rebel during the war. He said that that official's wife and family were most outspoken secessionists, and that his house had been made a rendezvous for rebels.

Mr. JENCKES, (rep.) of R. I., denied the assertion in the most positive manner. He had known the gentlemen referred to all through the war and knew that there was no more loyal man in the city of Washington. Some slanderer had evidently been poisoning the ear of the gentleman from New York.

In connection with the appropriations for the construction branch of the Treasury the extravagance of the supervising architect, Mr. A. B. Mullett, was denounced by Mr. Farnsworth, the question of the New York and Boston Post Offices coming incidentally into the discussion, and the architect was defended by Mr. Butler, of Massachusetts.

Without disposing of the question, and after progressing through only two pages of the bill, the committee rose, and, after transacting a small amount of miscellaneous business, at five o'clock the House adjourned.

OUR MERCHANT MARINE.

Report of the Special Committee on Navigation—Cause of the Decline of American Shipping—Suggestions of Remedies.

The following is a synopsis, embracing the more important facts, arguments and suggestions of the report of the special committee on navigation interests submitted in the House of Representatives yesterday:—

The committee, in prosecuting its inquiries have held sessions in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Portland, receiving the statements of merchants, shipbuilders, shipowners and insurance agents, gentlemen having practical knowledge and experience relating to the matter under investigation. The shipowners' associations of New York, Philadelphia and Maine, and the Board Trade of Boston were represented at the sessions of the committee, and presented the views of these various associations. Like information and evidence have been received in the sessions of the committee held at the Capitol during the present session of Congress. Circular letters have been addressed to gentlemen engaged in the various branches of business connected with the shipping interests, requesting a statement of their views on the subject under inquiry, and also to American consuls at the principal ports of foreign countries, asking them to furnish information in regard to the condition of the mercantile marine of those countries.

THE DECLINE IN AMERICAN OCEAN TONNAGE.

The report says:—The increase of our tonnage in the foreign carrying trade from 1830 to 1840 was about sixty per cent; from 1840 to 1850, seventy-five per cent; from 1850 to 1860, sixty per cent. This latter is the first decade in which we find any reliable statistics of the registered tonnage of Great Britain, to enable us to institute a comparison between it and our own. In this decade the tonnage of Great Britain employed exclusively in the foreign trade of that country increased about forty per cent. Our own tonnage engaged in the foreign carrying trade reached its highest point in 1861, being that year 2,642,628 tons, while that of Great Britain was at the same time 3,179,633 tons, giving us the second place in rank among nations in the extent of our ocean tonnage, while we were the acknowledged superior of all in the proficiency which we had attained in the science of naval architecture and in the efficiency of our mercantile marine.

From 1861 to 1866 our tonnage engaged in the foreign trade decreased from 2,642,628 tons to 1,492,926 tons—a loss of 1,149,702 tons, or more than forty-three per cent, while Great Britain in the same Notwithstanding the check caused by the war time gain 955,715 tons, or more than thirty per cent.

upon the production of the crops of the South, which furnished so large a percentage of our exports, the aggregate tonnage of the United States and Great Britain engaged in the foreign carrying trade has increased about fourteen per cent, while from the position of nearly an equal in tonnage with that nation our own tonnage had dwindled to less than one-third of that of Great Britain.

The change of the business furnished by our own country in exports and imports from American to foreign vessels is still more striking.

In 1850, seventy-five per cent of our total exports and imports were shipped in American vessels. In 1855, seventy-five per cent in American, and twenty-five per cent in foreign vessels. In 1869, thirty-four per cent in American to sixty-six per cent in foreign vessels. Our exports have doubled since 1853, while the percentage carried in American vessels has fallen from sixty-seven per cent to thirty-four per cent. It is estimated that fully one-half the registered tonnage of the United States is engaged in the carrying trade between foreign countries, on long routes carrying the bulky cheap freights, while, as has been shown by the foregoing table, our own exports and imports are passing in foreign bottoms, the freights going to enrich our commercial rivals, and swell the foreign balances against us, which must be settled in gold.

Nearly seventy per cent of the imports at the great commercial city of the country are in foreign steamers.

ENGLISH AND FRENCH POLICY.

At present the whole tendency of the freighting business of the world is to seek direct routes, and, by steam communication, to combine mail and passenger with merchandise transportation. Great Britain, availing herself of the use of steam, has obtained control of the chief of these direct lines of ocean communication, and in doing so has occupied the shortest routes and those which, without loss of time or distance, affords the most points to touch and tap the trade belonging to them.

Between America, North and South, she has nine direct lines. Three lines sail direct from Southampton to the Gulf of Mexico—one to Tampico, Mexico; another to Aspinwall; the third runs to Puerto Cabello, Venezuela. There are also three lines that sail direct for the Atlantic coast of South America. Panama is the starting point for four lines of British steamers. There are two lines along the west coast of Africa, both starting from Southampton.

Besides a number of short routes connecting different points, the greatest line of all is that of the Peninsular and Oriental Mail Steamship Company. Its point of departure is Southampton. From that port their vessels go to Gibraltar, through the Mediterranean, touching at different points, as Malta, &c., to Port Said, through the canal, the Red sea, across the Arabian Sea, to Bombay and Ceylon. At the latter place a line runs to Australia, there connecting with a line already mentioned, running from Panama, and thus making the circle complete. This extension of lines of steamers has been procured mainly by means of liberal subsidies paid by the British and French governments for carrying the mails.

For the postal service they perform Great Britain pays to twelve of her principal mail steamship companies, in the form of an annual subsidy, £903,750, or $4,392,244, besides the amounts collected for postage from other principal routes and a number of connecting lines, amounting to enough more to make the entire payments at least $5,000,000. Of this large sum about $2,000,000 is paid to the lines connecting with the American Continent.

The French government is even more liberal than that of Great Britain, and the effect of their policy is seen in the establishment of several lines of the finest equipped establishments afloat, even rivaling the best British lines. The French government pays several million dollars annually to these lines. By means of these lines France is tapping the chief sources of commercial prosperity, North America, the West Indies and Central America, Africa and Farther Asia.

There are, besides the great lines indicated, others which are also extending rapidly. From Hamburg and Bremen there are finely appointed transatlantic lines, which receive aid in heavy charges for carrying mail matter from Great Britain and the United States, besides direct aid from the North German government. Austria and Italy both have lines sailing from Trieste and Venice, and carrying the mails for Mediterranean ports. One or both these lines are pushing toward India and China. Holland has a regular line to and from her East Indian colonies, and Spain one also to the Philippine Islands. All these governments see the advantages derived from development of the "through route" steamship system. Even Japan, just waking up to the influences of Western material progress, is encouraging the formation of a mercantile steam marine, and owns and employs in her own waters, and in trade with China, twenty first class steamers, paying liberally for the transportation of the mails between her own ports and islands.

INADEQUACY OF THE AMERICAN LINES.

In striking contrast with the activity displayed by foreign nations is the want of it manifested by our own. During the year ending June 30, 1869, there was paid by the United States for ocean mail service $1,101,674, of which amount $530,163 was paid to foreign companies.

We have but two lines of mail steamers running on the Atlantic—one, semi-monthly, to Rio Janeiro from New York, stopping at St. Thomas and Pernambuco; the other, Pacific mail, from New York to Aspinwall, stopping at Havana. On the Pacific side we have from Panama, one line to San Francisco, and from there to Yokohama and Shanghae. From the same port there is a semi-monthly line to Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, one to Vancouver Island, carrying the mails to Oregon, British Columbia, and the Puget Sound country, and one, semi-monthly, to Mazatlan, Mexico. In all not more than thirty steamships are employed in this service, of which the Pacific Mail have fourteen. The British Peninsular and Oriental Company alone employ forty-nine large vessels, forty-six of which are mail carriers for the East and Australia.

Your committee are of opinion that the readmission of the vessels that sought protection under a foreign flag during the rebellion is against sound public policy; that to allow citizens to avail themselves of all the advantages conferred by our government during peace and to escape all the risks of supporting it during war, by placing their property at such times under the protection of a foreign government, would be a dangerous precedent to establish. Most of the vessels which changed their nationality were placed under the flag of a nation that, under the guise of neutrality, was making war upon our commerce for the benefit of its own. They identified their interest with those of our enemy, and obtained all the advantages resulting from such connection. To readmit them now to the same privileges accorded to vessels which adhered to the flag and fortunes of the country through all the perils, and under all the disadvantages incident to the war, would be to encourage desertion in times when the country most needed the aid of its citizens.

The argument in favor of the policy of admitting foreign built vessels to American registry is based upon the assumption that the change which has taken place in the character of commercial vessels from wood to iron and from sail to steam vessels has given to foreign nations, particularly to Great Britain, such advantages in regard to the cheap construction of this latter class of vessels, as to make it impossible for us to compete with her, and that we are reduced to the alternative of either purchasing our ships of her or of surrendering to her the carrying trade. It is further urged that this trade contributes so greatly to the wealth of a nation that we should secure it, by purchasing and sailing foreign built ships. To which end it is necessary that all restrictions upon the purchase of such ships should be removed from our statutes.

The opposite policy of allowing only American built vessels the privilege of the American flag and register was adopted at the formation of the government, and has been uniformly adhered to since, modified only by the act of December 23, 1852, which permits foreign vessels wrecked in the waters of the United States and repaired in our ports, the repairs amounting to three-fourths of the value of the vessel, to take out an American register. The best proof of the wisdom of this policy is the rapid and uninterrupted progress which we attained as a commercial nation under its operations. Great Britain became the first maritime nation of the world under a like policy, which she never relaxed until her merchant marine was strengthened beyond danger from competition.

We cannot build up a truly American merchant marine in a foreign country for the reason that the countries in which we build will have every advantage over us in competing for the carrying trade which is to sustain such a marine. First, in the profits of the business of building and fitting out the vessels; second, in the command of cheap capital; third, in combining the building, owning and managing interests, which can only be done in the country where the shipping is built, and fourth, in the prestige such countries would obtain by furnishing the vessels which Americans would own and also those which were to compete for the business with American owned vessels. Furthermore, it is not probable that American capital would be sent to Europe to build ships with which to compete on equal terms for business with the ships of those who build for them, unless these foreign built vessels were allowed to participate in our coasting trade—a change in our policy which would not only entirely destroy every branch of mechanical industry in the United States dependent upon shipbuilding, but would ruin the present owners of coasting vessels. It would be admitting to the enjoyment of American business foreigners who pay no taxes to the American government, and who, by virtue of that exception, would be enabled to drive American taxpayers out of employment.

The policy of admitting foreign built ships to American registry, on payment of a duty, has also been urged upon us. The committee cannot recommend such legislation; for whatever duty might be so imposed would operate only to the advantage of the foreign shipowner, with whom the American purchaser and owner of such foreign built ships would have to compete. If we were to admit foreign built ships to American registry at all, it would be with the view of enabling our shipowners to supply themselves with vessels at a rate as low as that paid by foreign competitors. An American shipowner must in such case be able to purchase as cheap as the foreigner or he must obtain better ships; otherwise he is deprived of that equality of ability to compete which is an essential condition of the success desired by those who wish to engage in the carrying trade of the world. The statement is in itself a sufficient answer to the proposition.

CAUSES OF DECLINE.

The decline has been wholly in the shipping of the United States. While that of other nations has been depressed from the causes alluded to, there has not only been no absolute decline, but, as has been shown, a constant increase in tonnage and in the efficiency of their vessels. It is obvious from the foregoing that the causes operating to produce the present condition of the navigation interest are special—such as affect American tonnage only—and, as your committee believe, may be readily ascertained.

The steady increase of our shipping engaged in the foreign trade up to the commencement of the rebellion and the sudden and rapid decline from that point leads directly to the conclusion that its decadence is attributable mainly, if not solely, to incidents of the war. According to the best available data 919,466 tons of American shipping disappeared from our lists during the rebellion. Of this amount 110,163 tons were destroyed by Anglo-Confederate pirates, while 803,303 tons were either sold to foreigners or passed nominally into their hands and obtained the protection of their flags. Here was an actual loss to the private owners of less than five per cent, and a loss to the nation of about thirty-seven per cent of the total of American tonnage engaged in the foreign carrying trade. The loss of this amount of tonnage would not of itself have produced such disastrous results as we have seen had not the value of what remained been virtually destroyed by the peril in which it was placed from English piratical vessels sailing under the Confederate flag. The risk of sailing under the American flag was so great as to divert a large share of the carrying trade into foreign bottoms, principally those of Great Britain.

That changes which have occurred in naval architecture and in the materials of which ships are now being constructed operated anterior to the rebellion, and tended to produce a revolution in the shipping of the world is undoubtedly true. Iron as a building material for ships was fast superseding wood, and screw steamers were, as we have said, crowding out sail vessels on all ocean routes where the carrying of passengers and mails could be combined with the general freighting business. But it by no means follows that this revolution in the character of the mercantile marine of the world would, if peace had continued, have prevented us from maintaining with foreign nations our relative position as a great maritime Power. The war not only deprived us of the advantages resulting from this change in the character of commercial vessels and the currents of trade affected thereby, but gave an impetus to all business connected with ocean navigation in the hands of our great commercial rival, and an advantage over us that, but for the war, she would not have obtained.

REMEDIES.

The committee, in endeavoring to find the best method of remedying the evil, have considered the following proposed plans of legislation in reference thereto:—

1. The readmission of the vessels which sought the protection of a foreign flag during the war to American registry. 2. The modification of our navigation laws, so as to admit foreign built vessels to American registry, either free of duty or on moderate duty on the tonnage of such vessels. 3. The allowance of a drawback on imported material which is used in the construction of vessels or an equivalent to the drawback where American materials are used. 4. Permission to withdraw from bond stores to be consumed by vessels on voyages to foreign ports. 5. Exemption of tonnage from all taxes other than by the federal government. And 6. The granting of such government aid by way of postage on mails and by subsidies as will insure the establishment of lines of American ocean steamers to the principal foreign ports of the world, thereby enabling our citizens to participate in the profits of the trade created by such lines.

THE ENCOURAGEMENT TO BE OFFERED.

The testimony taken by the committee is nearly unanimous that by offering to our citizens the same encouragement and protection as is afforded by other commercial nations to their citizens, our shipping can be built, and lines of ocean steamers established as fast as the requirements of business demand, and that there would be a present demand for ships if they could be cheaply supplied. That although the cost of iron and some other materials would be higher by the amount paid in freight, and the wages of labor are also higher with us than in Europe, yet we should have an advantage in the cost of timber, a large amount of which is used, even in the construction of iron vessels—and that the higher rates paid for American labor would be more than counterbalanced by its greater efficiency and skill. Your committee, after the most careful deliberation, impressed with the great importance of restoring our commercial marine, not only as a means of increasing the national wealth in time of peace, but also as one of the most efficient agencies for national defence in time of war, respectfully recommend the following measures as calculated to to promote the desired object:—

First.—The remission of the duties imposed upon the raw material entering into the construction of vessels and steamers, limiting the amount to the minimum of duties per ton collected on the material required for certain classes of vessels, and where American iron is used in the construction of iron vessels an amount per ton equivalent to the duties on a like amount of imported raw materials, limiting the amount to be paid.

Second.—That all stores to be used by vessels sailing to foreign ports may be taken in bond free of duty.

And third.—Further to encourage investment in shipping, and to extend the aid to ships already built, and which have been sailed during and since the rebellion at great disadvantage, allowing to all sailing vessels and to all steamers running to the British North American provinces one dollar and a half per ton, on steamers to European ports four dollars per ton, and on all other steamers running to foreign ports three dollars per ton.

In view of the fact that the tax upon tonnage cannot be removed without relieving the vessels of all foreign nations of the same, while no such exemption is extended to American vessels in foreign ports, and in view of the further fact that the shipping interest of the country is to receive some relief by the passage of the proposed measures, the committee recommend only the removal of all tonnage, harbor, pilotage and other like taxes imposed upon shipping by State and municipal authority (which taxes have been declared by the Supreme Court unconstitutional), and the readjustment of the present tax upon tonnage, so that it will fall more equitably upon the different classes of vessels affected thereby. The amount which will be received from this source is estimated by the committee to be more than $3,000,000 per annum, and will to that extent contribute to the relief which is proposed to be granted in aid of the shipping interest of the United States. For the purpose of carrying out the foregoing recommendations your committee report herewith two bills for consideration:—

AN ACT TO REVIVE THE NAVIGATION AND COMMERCIAL INTERESTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Whereas the mercantile marine of the country was nearly destroyed during the late rebellion in consequence of the inability of the government to protect it; and now, while bearing its share of taxation, has no such protection from foreign competition as is afforded to other great national interests and industries, and is therefore steadily declining:

And whereas the restoration of our commercial marine, constituting as it does one of the most efficient means of defence in time of war, is of great national importance, and essential to the maintenance of our position as a first class Power; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled, That upon all imported lumber, timber, hemp, manilla and copper and for iron not advanced beyond rods and bars, which may be used and wrought up into the construction of steam or sail vessels built in the United States, whether for the hull, rigging, equipment or machinery of such vessels, there shall be allowed and paid by the Secretary of the Treasury, under such regulations as he may prescribe, a drawback equal to the duties which may have been paid on such material, provided that the amount of such drawback shall not exceed on wooden sail vessels eight dollars per ton; on sail vessels known as composit, that is, vessels composed of iron frames and wooden planking and sheathing, ten dollars per ton; on wooden steamers, ten dollars per ton; on composite steamers, composed of iron frames and wooden planking, twelve dollars per ton; on iron steamers, fifteen dollars per ton. And provided further, That where American material is used in the construction of iron or composite vessels or steamers there shall be allowed and paid, as aforesaid, an amount equivalent to the duties imposed on similar articles of foreign manufacture when imported, the full allowance on American and foreign materials not to exceed the amounts per ton, on vessels of each class respectively, hereinbefore specified.

SEC. 2. That all ship stores and coal to be used and consumed by any vessel on its voyage from any port of the United States to any foreign port, may, in such quantity and under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, be taken in whole packages in bond, and disposed of for such such purposes, free of import and internal duty and tax.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the owner of any American registered sail or steam vessel which shall be engaged for more than six months in the year in the carrying trade between American and foreign ports, or between the ports of foreign countries, shall, at the end of each fiscal year in which such vessel has been so engaged, be paid by the collector of the port where such vessel is registered, upon exhibiting satisfactory evidence, in form to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, that such vessel has been so engaged, upon every sail vessel and upon every steamer running to and from the ports of the North American provinces, $1 50 for each registered ton; and upon every steamer running to and from any European port, $4 for each registered ton; and upon every steamer running to and from all other foreign ports, $3 for each registered ton.

AN ACT IMPOSING TONNAGE DUTIES AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in lieu of all duties on tonnage now imposed by law a duty of thirty cents per ton is hereby imposed on all ships, vessels or steamers entered in the United States; but the receipts of vessels paying such tax shall not be subject to the tax provided in section 103 of an act approved June 30, 1864, nor by any act amendatory thereof. And provided, further, That no ship, vessel or steamer having a license to trade between different districts of the United States, or to carry on the bank, whale or other fisheries, and no vessel or steamer to or from any port or place in Mexico, or from any port or place south of Mexico, down to and including Aspinwall and Panama, or from any port or place in the British provinces of North America, or the West India Islands, and employed regularly in these trades and no others, shall be required to pay the tonnage tax contemplated by this act more than once in each fiscal year.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That no harbor dues, pilotage fees, or other taxes on imports levied, or pretended to be levied, on the tonnage, merchandise, trade, imports, or cargoes of any vessel, by virtue of the authority of any State or municipal government, except wharfage, pierage and dockage shall be collected; and the collection of, or attempt to collect the same, or any portion thereof, shall be a penal offence, to be punished as hereafter provided.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, &c., That any person who, by virtue of any authority or pretended authority derived under any State or municipal government, shall collect any such illegal tax, fees or dues, or shall attempt to collect the same, shall, upon the conviction of each offence, be fined in a sum not exceeding $100 for each offence, the amount of which fine shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the judiciary fund, and he shall further be liable to pay a sum not exceeding double the amount of the illegal taxes, fees or dues thus collected, or attempted to be collected, one-half to be paid to the informer and the other to be placed to the credit of the appropriation for lighthouses.

SEC. 4. Be it enacted, &c., That any captain or master of a vessel, or any other person being the duly authorized agent of any vessel, line of vessels, or transportation company, who shall pay, with or without protest, any such illegal taxes, fees or dues as are prohibited by this act, may recover the sum from the person collecting the same by action in appropriate form in the District Court of the United States of the district where the collection was made, and the courts of the United States shall have full jurisdiction in all cases arising under this act.

SUBSIDIES PROPOSED.

It is evident that our future wars with any of the great Powers must be upon the ocean, and with an enemy that must cross the ocean to attack us, and whose vulnerable point to assail is the population and wealth which he has scattered on every sea.

Great Britain has, as we have seen, adopted the policy of subsidizing her lines of ocean steamers and the result is that she has doubled the efficiency of her navy, and at the same time added immensely to her national wealth. These subsidized ships are subject at all times to the demands of the government. Our government has no such source to draw from, and must consequently depend entirely upon a navy, supported in peace, merely in order to be available in war.

It would be a matter of economy if our government should build vessels adapted to the uses of commerce in time of peace and readily convertible into fighting ships in time of war, giving the free use of such ships in time of peace to merchants who would take care of and use them until required for the national defence. Under such circumstances the government would be relieved of the cost of taking care of the ships when not required for the public service, and the national wealth would be increased by their use for mercantile purposes. As the government can have the control of such vessels when needed, by paying only a small percentage of their cost, is it not clearly a matter of economy and sound public policy to legislate with a view to such results?

RIVER AND RAILWAY NAVIGATION.

The vast navigable rivers and extensive lines of railway of our country are so intimately connected with the subjects of ocean steam navigation that your committee cannot refrain from alluding to them in concluding this report.

The continental position and geographical features of this republic, lying in the direct route between Europe and Asia, washed on either shore by the two great oceans of the world, and interlaced with a vast network of interior navigable waters, affords in itself the grandest of all possible incentives toward determining the granting of such legitimate aid as may be accorded in the effort to revive our shipping interests, as well as to achieve that supreme maritime leadership to which we may reasonably aspire.

Nothing in the future is more certain than that the foreign importations of the West are to be made directly to her chief commercial cities, and distributed therefrom as they now are, from the ports on the seaboard. The railways which are to supply them in part are but in their infancy, and by means of improvements yet to be introduced may ere long be able to compete successfully with steam transportation by water. Through such improvements the routes across our Continent, already the most direct, may become the cheapest routes from London to China and Japan.

By the adoption of a wise and liberal commercial policy we can control the trade of Eastern Asia and the commerce of the Pacific, and pour their wealth directly into the valley of the Mississippi, which is to be the centre of population in the future of our country. Chicago, St. Louis and other cities of the West, are, as we have said, to become ports of entry and distributors of the products of Asia as well as of Europe. Thus the great West has the same interest in reviving and maintaining the ocean commerce of our country under the American flag that the Atlantic States have in opening up internal lines of commerce, whether by the building of great lines of railway or by the improvement of lake or river navigation.

ST. DOMINGO.

Advices from the capital of St. Domingo to the 30th ult. report that a national bank has been chartered by the Baez government. The stockholders are New York capitalists, who have bought up the bonds of the Dominican republic at twenty cents on the dollar and deposited them in the treasury as security for the notes issued. The operations of the bank are to be confined solely to purchasing the bonds of Baez at twenty cents on the dollar, the same to be redeemed at par in the event of the United States concluding the treaty for annexation.

Colonel Juan Evangelista, an adherent of Cabral, has been shot by order of Baez.

The United States steamer Nantasket was cruising between Samana bay and St. Domingo city.

The bark Carrie Hill, Captain Smith, from Cardiff for New Orleans, with railroad iron, was wrecked between Cape Cano and Saona Island. Her crew was saved.

CUBA.

Serious Trouble Among the Volunteers—Spanish Vendetta to Avenge Castanon—Wholesale Slaughter.

The following news has been received by private sources from Havana, under date of the 12th inst:—The volunteers of the Second battalion, stationed at Penar del Rio, have mutinied and attempted to kill their colonel, Don Miguel Antonio Herrera, and the Lieutenant Governor of that town, who have both telegraphed to the Captain General, requesting to be recalled. It is reported that a club has been formed by Spaniards, chiefly composed of employés of the Havana Custom House, who have sworn to kill all the Cubans that come in their way in order to revenge the death of Castanon. The late assassinations are traced to them, including the attack made on the four young men which resulted in the death of Greenwalth. Since the arrival of Castanon's body fifty-two persons have fallen victims to this band, twenty of whom have died, and thirty-two wounded. The Venezuelans resident in Havana have been warned that they will all be assassinated, and are leaving in great hurry.

The Consul of the North German Confederation has presented his thanks to the Casino Español for the kind action taken in the subscription for the family of Greenwalth.

The volunteers are causing much trouble, and the Captain General has issued a general order requesting them to preserve order and morality, to which they reply that they have to obey no one.

HAMILTON COLLEGE.

Second Annual Reunion at the Astor House.

At the Astor House, last evening, the Second Reunion of the New York Association of Hamilton Alumni was held. A very excellent dinner was provided, and among those present were Judge Bosworth, who presided on the occasion, and Colonel Emmons Clark, Professor T. W. Dwight, President D. G. Brown, Colonel Frank W. Headley (Salt Lake City), William C. P. Kirkland, Professor Doberty, Rev. J. S. Hastings, Professor North, Rev. Joel Parker, D. D.; Professor Avery, Professor Samuel B. Woolworth, LL.D.; Mr. John V. L. Pruyn, Professor A. J. Upson, F. Peters, Colonel Thomas F. Knox, S. McD. North (Utica Herald), Rev. Dr. Kendall, Mr. J. C. Wall, Mr. E. Hadley, M. D. Huntingdon.

Letters of apology expressive of the inability of the writers to be present were received by the secretary from many of the alumni resident over different districts of the States among the most notable of which was one from the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Brown, the oldest graduate of the college, now eighty-one years of age, and another from Zephaniah Platt, Chief Justice of South Carolina.

Judge BOSWORTH, in introducing the regular toasts, said that about five hundred of the alumni had devoted their talents to the ministry, and had thereby helped in the improvement of the moral and religious condition of the inhabitants of almost every part of the world. About four hundred more had adopted the legal profession, and many of these had obtained great distinction. It was a significant fact that only fifty of the alumni had adopted the medical profession. So well had the lawyers and the clergy cared for the bodies and souls of their clients that they seemed to have no need of a physician. After a passing reference to the number of the alumni who had perished in the war in support of the Union he said that the number of those who had graduated and became members of Congress was just as large as it was in 1812. (Laughter.)

President S. G. BROWN, in responding to the toast of "The Faculty," spoke of the necessity of additional professors for the college for the chairs of philosophy, natural science and natural history. He objected to the prevalent desire for the ignoring of the study of the dead languages in collegiate education.

Professor DWIGHT spoke briefly in response to the toast of "Hamilton College."

Professor EDWARD NORTH spoke to "The Memory of Samuel Kirkland;" Chancellor J. V. L. PRUYN, to "The University of the State of New York;" Professor C. H. PETERS, to "The Litchfield Astronomical Expedition of Hamilton College," and Rev. JOEL PARKER on "The Alumni."

Captain JOHN H. HOWELL referred to the names of the silent dead. In speaking of the "Memories of College Life" he referred to those who had lost their lives on Southern battle fields, and in this connection mentioned the names of Allen and Buckingham, Butts and Bacon, Brown, Crane and Curran, Williams, Johnson and Turner, Lathrop and Sheldon, who had given their names to the republic in the hour of its greatest necessity. He knew some of them personally, but he would not particularize where all were noble, chivalrous and gallant. These names would ever stand high in the galaxy of the illustrious alumni.

This was the last of the toasts and brought to a close a very pleasant reunion.

JAPAN.

The First Piano in the Empire—The Mikado Equal to the Occasion.

Letters from Yokohama, Japan, received in England, state that the chief officers of the naval expedition sent by the Austrian government to the East had an audience of the Mikado, who expressed great admiration at the presents, chiefly of Hungarian manufacture, which had been sent him by the Emperor. One of them is a piano, and an attache of the Austrian embassy having played several pieces on this instrument before the Mikado, who had never seen a piano before, the latter was so pleased that he at once directed his wife to take lessons. Her Majesty is to be instructed in the use of the instrument by Lady Parkes, wife of the British Ambassador at Jeddo.

The boiler in the Union Railway carworks at St. Louis, Mo., exploded yesterday afternoon, killing four persons outright and severely injuring several others.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR CALOMEL. IMPORTANT MEDICAL DISCOVERY. The pernicious effects of mercury on the human system have produced an earnest desire among the more enlightened and conscientious members of the medical profession to find some substitute for that deleterious mineral. Dr. Richard Reese, a celebrated London physician, and author of the "Dictionary of Popular Medicines," declares that the vegetable kingdom can furnish remedies for every case in which mercury or calomel can possibly be useful. Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, has actually composed a medicine of purely vegetable ingredients, which is proved by experience to have all the good effects of calomel, and none of its mischievous qualities. These pills never salivate, even if taken in large doses. This invaluable medicine is comprised in SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, which are found to be a never-failing remedy for all diseases of the liver, and every other disorder for which calomel is usually prescribed by allopath physicians. These pills are prepared only by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK.
